BAUCUS, GRASSLEY MILITARY TAX RELIEF PACKAGE BECOMES LAW

Provisions crafted by Finance leaders will help military families save money, boost businesses that employ reservists

Washington, DC – Senate Finance Committee Chairman Max Baucus (D-Mont.) and Ranking Member Chuck Grassley (R-Iowa) today hailed the signing of the Heroes Earnings Assistance and Relief Tax Act (HEART) into law. The bill will provide more than $1.2 billion dollars in tax relief to benefit America’s veterans and soldiers. Baucus and Grassley worked closely with House colleagues to combine their own military tax relief bill – the Defenders of Freedom Tax Relief Act of 2007 – with an earlier version of the House’s HEART Act. HEART was approved by the Senate and the House of Representatives in late May. The legislation includes tax cuts for members of the military who are receiving combat pay, saving for retirement, or purchasing their own homes. It also helps civilian employers of military men and women keep jobs available for soldiers who are called to active duty.

“I worked to get this bill to the President’s desk because tax relief for America’s military men and women is the right thing to do,” said Baucus. “This bill helps our fighting forces and our veterans purchase their own homes, save for their retirements, and put their kids through college. It helps businesses keep reservists on the payroll while they are overseas. This new law provides timely and appropriate tax relief to those who sacrifice for our freedom.”

“Military service makes taxes complicated and sometimes unfair,” Grassley said. “People shouldn’t suffer a tax hit to serve our country. We need to make sure military men and women have fair treatment under the tax code. It’s a no-brainer.”

Final HEART Act provisions, including many originally introduced by Baucus and Grassley in the Defenders of Freedom Act, include:

Tax Fairness for Military Personnel

- A permanent allowance for soldiers to count their non-taxable combat pay when figuring their eligibility for the earned income tax credit, a refundable federal income tax credit that puts cash in the hands of low-income working individuals and families.

- The ability for active duty troops to withdraw money from retirement plans, and an allowance of two years to replace the funds without tax penalty.
- A 180-day period for Reservists called to active duty to use unspent funds in a health flexible spending account or cafeteria plan.
- The ability for military families to count most military cash allowances beyond basic pay to be treated as earned income for purposes of determining Supplemental Security Income (SSI) eligibility and benefit amounts, and treat certain housing payments as in-kind support and maintenance.
- Clarification that members of the military who file a joint tax return would be eligible for the stimulus rebate payment even if the spouse does not have a Social Security number.
- A one year extension of parity between mental and physical health benefits.

Honoring our Veterans

- A permanent allowance for all veterans to use qualified mortgage bonds to purchase their homes.
- Extension of a provision that gives retired veterans more time to claim a tax refund on some types of disability benefit payments.
- Authority for the IRS to treat gifts of thanks from states to veterans—such as payments of excess state revenue—as nontaxable gifts.
- The ability for blind, disabled, and aged veterans to disregard state annuity payments when determining Supplemental Security Income eligibility and benefits.

Helping Military Families and Survivors

- The ability for families of Reservists killed in the line of duty to collect life insurance and other benefits provided by the civilian employer.
- The ability for families of soldiers killed in the line of duty to contribute up to 100 percent of survivor benefits to retirement savings accounts or to education savings accounts.

Helping Businesses Support Military Personnel

- A tax cut for small businesses when they continue paying some salary to members of the National Guard and Reserve who are called to duty.
- An end to cumbersome rules for reporting of income when companies continue paying some salary to members of the National Guard and Reserve who are called to duty. This makes it easier for reservists to file their taxes and simpler for employers to keep contributing to those employees' retirement plans.

Other Provisions for Americans Serving Overseas

- A permanent extension of a provision that gives intelligence service employees and Peace Corps volunteers a longer period of time to meet residency requirements necessary to exclude profits from the sale of their home from capital gains tax, which is often necessary due to frequent deployment.
- The ability to disregard allowances paid to all AmeriCorps volunteers for the purpose of determining SSI eligibility and benefit amounts.

The Heroes Earnings Assistance and Relief Tax Act is offset in part with a provision to ensure defense contractors are not sidestepping their tax obligations by going offshore, no matter where in the world they employ workers. This provision will require U.S. employers doing federal contract work for the U.S. government, and using foreign subsidiaries to compensate their U.S. employees working abroad, to begin paying Social Security and Medicare taxes on behalf of these employees. The provision will insure defense contractors in Iraq, Afghanistan and elsewhere meet their legal obligation to pay payroll taxes on behalf of the people who work for them.

Other offsets include a provision that makes certain that individuals who relinquish their U.S. citizenship or long-term U.S. residency pay the same Federal taxes for appreciation of assets, such as stocks or bonds that they would pay if they sold them as U.S. citizens or residents. The bill increases the penalty for people who fail to file their tax returns and allows the Social Security Administration and the Veterans' Administration to work together to verify low-income status when distributing veteran's benefits.
