

Dear senator,

I would like to bring my support to the proposed changes to the black liquor bill. The loophole that the paper companies are using, by adding diesel oil to the black liquor at the pulp and paper mills is totally unacceptable, if not against the law. It is a shame that companies are doing this, specially in these tough time we are going thru, when every cent available should be used to support the economy and help the American families survive.

As a tax payer, I feel that this is not the best destination of my money.

sincerely,

Colin Bilton
