Mr. David Keene

Dear Mr. Keene:

We are writing to request information and documentation you may have in relation to a National Rifle Association delegation's December 2015 trip to Moscow, Russia in which you participated, according to social media postings by the Russian pro-gun organization "Right to Bear Arms,"¹ and related matters.

In February of this year, Senator Wyden launched an investigation after media reports suggested Alexander Torshin, Deputy Governor of the Central Bank of the Russian Federation, had attempted to illegally funnel foreign money into the 2016 campaign through the NRA.² On April 6, 2018, the Treasury Department sanctioned Mr. Torshin for his role in the Russian government's worldwide malign activity, including for "attempting to subvert Western democracies, and malicious cyber activities."³

Another participant in the December 2015 Moscow trip, Maria Butina, was recently arrested by federal authorities and charged with acting as a covert agent of the Russian government.⁴ Prosecutors have alleged that she "engaged in a years-long conspiracy to work covertly in the United States as an undeclared agent of the Russian Federation in order to advance the interest of her home country."⁵ In a sworn affidavit for the United States Government, an FBI Special Agent involved in the case attested that Ms. Butina began "laying the groundwork in Russia" for her alleged influence campaign as early as March 24, 2015.⁶

Ms. Butina reportedly claimed that her gun rights organization, the Right to Bear Arms, “helped pay part of the expenses of a visiting NRA delegation to my native Russia, something any decent host would do when friends visit.”⁷ According to a statement of economic interest that he filed with the Milwaukee County Ethics Board, David A. Clarke Jr, former Milwaukee County Sheriff reported that Ms. Butina’s organization, the Right to Bear Arms, paid $6,000 for his meals, lodging, and travel for his participation in the trip.⁸
