

1 EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETING ON PROPOSED TAX REFORM ACT OF 2 1986

3 TUESDAY, APRIL 8, 1986

4 U.S. Senate

5 Committee on Finance

6 Washington, D.C.

7 The committee met, pursuant to recess, at 9:30 a.m. in 8 Room SD-215, Dirksen Senate Office Building, the Honorable 9 Bob Packwood (chairman) presiding.

10 Present: Senators Packwood, Danforth, Chafee, Heinz, 11 Durenberger, Armstrong, Grassley, Matsunaga, Moynihan, 12 Baucus, Boren, Bradley, and Pryor.

13 Also present: Roger Mentz, Deputy Assistant Secretary 14 for Tax Policy, Treasury Department; Dennis Ross, Tax 15 Legislative Counsel, Treasury Department.

16 Also present: Bill Diefenderfer, Chief of Staff; David 17 Brockway, Chief of Staff, Joint Committee on Taxation; 18 Randy Weiss, Deputy Chief of Staff, Joint Committee on 19 Taxation; Maureen Gorman, Mary Levontine, Joint Committee on 20 Taxation; John Colvin, Chief Counsel; Bill Wilkins, Minority 21 Chief Counsel; Greg Jenner, Tax Counsel, Majority; Paul 22 Strella, Tax Counsel, Majority; Barbara Groves, Tax Counsel, 23 Minority; Jeff Gates, Tax Counsel, Minority; Susan Taylor, 24 Executive Assistant.

1 The Chairman. The Committee will come to order, please.

2 We have a nomination before us of Donald Newman to 3 be under secretary of Health and Human Services, and when 4 we have more members here, I will ask the Committee to report 5 that. I know of no opposition to it, but I will wait until 6 there are a few more members here.

7 Let me make a few announcements, and I will repeat them 8 from time to time during the day for other members. We are 9 going to have to start meeting both morning and afternoon 10 starting tomorrow to finish the subjects in the time that 11 I would like to finish them in. There will be no votes today.

12 But starting tomorrow, I think we will be ready to start 13 voting, hopefully, on the ACRS section and the energy and 14 natural resources section and complete those except as to 15 the agreement we have made at the end -- if we are 16 dramatically short of revenue or dramatically over on 17 revenue, we would come back and revisit a number of sections.

18 But it would be my hope to be able to finish trusts 19 and estates and possibly pensions and employee benefits 20 today; then move back to energy and natural resources and 21 depreciation tomorrow, and accounting on Thursday, with 22 votes on accounting. And then tomorrow afternoon, if we have 23 not finished pensions, finish it up in terms of discussion; 24 not in terms of voting. On Thursday afternoon, move to the 25 foreign section, foreign taxation, for purposes of

1 discussion, and carry on with it on Monday morning if we have 2 to; move to the discussion of bonds, municipal bonds, on 3 Monday afternoon, and then discussion of the individual tax 4 section and insurance on Tuesday; then perhaps ready for some 5 votes on Wednesday and Thursday on the foreign tax section 6 on insurance and on the bonds.

7 Now I will try to keep the members advised. I realize 8 I have rattled that off fast, and we will try to keep them 9 advised in writing as far ahead of time as we can.

10 When we have gone through a section, however, or two or 11 three sections and the members have indicated that they might 12 have some amendments, and they have passed them in, I see no 13 reason not to wrap up those sections, if we can.

14 Senator Moynihan.

15 Senator Moynihan. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I would like 16 to clarify the fact that there will not be votes.

17 The Chairman. There will not be votes on Monday or 18 Tuesday afternoons. We may have some votes in the morning 19 from time to time. It depends on how fast we go. But there 20 will not be initially votes in the afternoon. And on 21 Monday morning, I currently have scheduled discussion of the 22 foreign tax section, if we have not finished it on Thursday 23 afternoon. Otherwise, we may try to start that morning on --

24 Senator Moynihan. Mr. Chairman, I am the only member here 25 besides yourself, and I wonder if you really wanted to agree to 1 this because this comes very suddenly, and it is alas not 2 all that difficult to do nothing in this Committee. And if 3 you want nothing done, that would be the response of some 4 people who did not want things done on Monday morning or 5 Tuesday afternoon. If you could stick to Tuesday to 6 Thursday, say, next week and then after that, on proper 7 notice, they should be willing to accommodate you.

8 The Chairman. At the moment, on this Friday we have 9 scheduled the hearings on the Canadian free trade agreement, 10 don't we?

11 Senator Moynihan. Yes.

12 The Chairman. So for Friday we would move off of that, 13 and we will not have any votes that morning. And I don't 14 plan to that afternoon.

15 Senator Moynihan. We know that. That is part of the 16 schedule.

17 The Chairman. And then starting next week it is my 18 intention to try to meet Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, 19 Thursday mornings and afternoons.

20 Senator Moynihan. I have been 10 years on this 21 Committee. Could I speak to the possibility that you not 22 meet next Monday?

23 The Chairman. No.

24 Senator Moynihan. Fine, fine.

25 The Chairman. That we have announced before, that starting

1 next week we would meet every day Monday through Friday.

2 Senator Moynihan. Fine. Well then, Mr. Chairman, you are 3 the Chairman. As we have learned to our sorrow on more than 4 one occasion --

5 Could I ask another question?

6 The Chairman. Yes.

7 Senator Moynihan. The Gramm-Rudman bill was passed not 8 long ago 75 to 24, and it solemnly requires the United States
9 Senate to have a budget resolution adopted by April 15, 10 which I believe is Tuesday of next week. And that budget 11 resolution -- I represent the minority members on budget of 12 the Committee, and I can report to you that we have a number 13 of provisions that require acts. Are we going to keep our 14 solemn vow to Gramm-Rudman or are we just going to forget it?

15 The Chairman. I am not sure what your question is.

16 Senator Moynihan. Doesn't this Committee have to do 17 something?

18 The Chairman. Well, do you mean do we have to --

19 Senator Moynihan. If Mr. Diefenderfer thinks we have 20 to do nothing, and that is --

21 The Chairman. Do we have to meet? Will we have to 22 produce revenues if we are ordered to produce revenues, yes.
23 But until we have a budget through the Senate, through the 24 House -- the President, of course, does not have to sign it 25 because it is a congressional budget resolution -- until it is

1 through the Senate and through the House directing us to 2 produce revenues, it was not my intention to try to have this 3 bill be other than revenue neutral.

4 Senator Moynihan. Well, the budget resolution thinks 5 you are going to have to raise lots of facts.

6 The Chairman. Well, that is the Senate budget resolution 7 as it has come out of Committee, which is as far as it has 8 gone at the moment.

9 Senator Moynihan. As far as it is going as far as I 10 can tell.

11 (Laughter)

12 Senator Moynihan. Gramm-Rudman lasted four months.

13 The Chairman. Even in fairness, even the President's 14 budget proposal has between $6 and $7 billion in revenues 15 next year.

16 Senator Moynihan. Not in taxes. In some vague --

17 The Chairman. Revenue enhancers.

18 Senator Moynihan. Revenue enhancers.

19 Well, Mr. Chairman, I didn't vote for Gramm-Rudman, but 20 I would like to say it seems to me this Committee could meet 21 to ask ourselves do we think we would do what is in the 22 budget resolution.

23 The Chairman. Well, I feel quite confident that if the 24 budget resolution passes in the House and the Senate, and 25 clearly there will be debate on it on the Floor and clearly

1 there will be efforts to strike out any revenues in it on the 2 Floor -- I have no idea what the Floor may do. But if we 3 are asked to produce revenues, this Committee -- or directed, 4 I should say, to produce them, we will.

5 I have suggested to the Budget Committee Chairman, 6 Senator Domenici, that if they want us to produce revenues, 7 they leave it to our judgment and discretion as to where we 8 think the revenue should --

9 Senator Moynihan. That is the case.

10 The Chairman. Yes.

11 Senator Chafee.

12 Senator Chafee. Good morning.

13 (Laughter)

14 The Chairman. I have indicated to Senator Moynihan that 15 starting tomorrow we are going to have to meet both mornings
16 and afternoons. And I will try to have as simple a schedule 17 I can as to what I would like to be able to accomplish day 18 by day in terms of hearings. We won't have any votes in the 19 afternoons. The votes we will keep for a while in the 20 mornings, although starting next week we may even have some 21 votes in the afternoon.

22 But the schedule is tentative in the sense that if I 23 think we can do a section on an afternoon and we don't 24 finish it, we may have to carry it over to the next morning 25 which may bump the morning session to the afternoon. But if

1 we are going to finish this so that the staff will have time 2 to get it done and all the members will have a chance to look 3 at it and everyone who wants to comment on it outside the 4 Senate will have a chance, we have got to finish this in 5 early May, if we are going to hope to take it up on the Floor 6 in June.

7 And that would be my hope -- that we could take it up 8 on the Floor shortly after the recess, Memorial Day recess.

9 Senator Chafee. Well, Mr. Chairman, I subscribe to that 10 schedule, and I will do everything I can to support you in 11 achieving it.

12 The Chairman. Now why don't we start this morning on the 13 trusts and estates and start in on Page 210 of the big 14 markup comparative document -- present law, President's 15 proposal, House bill and Chairman's proposal -- that we have.

16 Could I first ask Mr. Brockway: Is it my understanding 17 that not only is the House bill and the President's proposal 18 based upon different years -- they are 1986 to 1990 or 1987 19 to 1991 -- but on different economic assumptions from what 20 my proposal is premised on?

21 Mr. Brockway. That is correct, Mr. Chairman. So that the 22 numbers that we have passed out aren't exactly comparable for 23 those two reasons.

24 The Chairman. And as a matter of fact, the economic 25 assumptions might be a bigger part of the difference.

1 Mr. Brockway. Depending upon the particular provision, 2 yes.

3 The Chairman. Yes. So I just want all the members -- I 4 am hoping that by the time we get to final votes on this 5 bill or even sooner if the members ask for it that we are 6 going to be able to have comparisons so when we say what does 7 the House bill lose or gain that at least we are operating on 8 the same economic assumptions which I assume would mean that 9 the President's proposal and the House bill would have to be 10 reestimated because it is based upon earlier economic data 11 than the present bill.

12 Am I correct? Or we can go back and estimate the House, 13 the Senate -- my proposal on the old data, but it seems to me 14 that would be --

15 Mr. Brockway. No, I don't think that would do. Certainly 16 ultimately in the process we will have to estimate the House 17 bill at the current economic assumptions, and it is simply 18 a matter of giving first priority to the amendments that are 19 coming up in the Finance Committee and then trying to work in 20 the estimates of the House bill under the new assumptions.

21 One other thing you ought to point out about a difference 22 between some of the numbers is that the rate structure is 23 different in the House bill, President's bill and your proposal 24 and so that any particular item might have a different 25 revenue impact because of that.

1 The Chairman. All right. Let us start on the incomes 2 of minor children.

3 Mr. Brockway, Mr. Colvin, Mr. Jenner, you want to start?

4 Mr. Colvin. On Page 210, the first issue is the unearned 5 income of --

6 The Chairman. A little louder, John. I can hear you, 7 but I am not sure everybody else can.

8 Mr. Colvin. On Page 210, the first issue is the taxation
9 of unearned income of minor children. The Chairman's 10 proposal would tax children with unearned income greater than 11 $5,000.00 at the parents' top marginal rate. Under the House 12 bill, the threshold was $1,000.00. The Chairman's proposal 13 affects significantly fewer people and targets the provision 14 to those at a higher income than the House bill.

15 The Chairman. Comments on that particular proposal?

16 Mr. Mentz. Mr. Chairman?

17 The Chairman. Mr. Secretary.

18 Mr. Mentz. Well, I would just like to say that I would 19 like to defend the President's proposal. Particularly, the 20 Secretary of the Treasury feels quite strongly that where a 21 child happens to inherit or receive a donation from perhaps 22 a grandparent or another relative or even a non-related person 23 that the income on that fund should be taxable at his rate.
24 That is, in effect, his money. It is not an intra-family 25 transfer simply to get the benefit of a run up the rate

1 bracket. And that is the reason that the President's proposal
2 came out the way it did, and that is the reason the Treasury 3 still supports it.

4 The Chairman. Senator Chafee.

5 Senator Chafee. I keep getting called on this morning, 6 and I --

7 (Laughter)

8 The Chairman. Senator Moynihan, go ahead.

9 Senator Moynihan. Mr. Chairman, I think Secretary Mentz
10 has made a perfectly clear statement of what in the distant 11 past was known as a tax reform bill. These are rich kids 12 who get money from rich grandparents and don't pay any taxes.
13 And your proposal is they pay some. Is that about it?

14 Mr. Mentz. Well, they pay some. It is just a question 15 of which rate you are talking about. And if they are really 16 rich, you are talking at the top rate in any case so it 17 doesn't really matter.

18 Senator Moynihan. And our principle is that if you are 19 really rich, you ought to pay some tax.

20 Mr. Mentz. We strongly support that proposal, Senator.

21 Senator Moynihan. I mean only the really rich.

22 Mr. Chairman, why can't we accept the President's proposal 23 as the House has done?

24 The Chairman. When the time comes to move that, we can.
25 We tried to, without exempting the very, very rich, not bring

1 it down to affect as many people as the House and the 2 President did.

3 Mr. Brockway. Mr. Chairman?

4 The Chairman. Mr. Brockway.

5 Mr. Brockway. A couple of comments. One, on the 6 Administration's proposal, Senator Moynihan, the proposal only 7 applies with respect to amounts transferred from the parents.
8 So in your hypothesis, for example, from the grandparents, 9 the proposal would not apply. The Chairman's proposal, the 10 reason for structuring it the way the Chairman's proposal is 11 done it attempts to minimize the situations where it would 12 apply, but the situation where there is a substantial amount 13 of income or earning property in the hands of the child, then 14 tax that to the parent's rate. But it is done through a 15 simpler structure. And that is that you don't have to set 16 up a separate account, a segregated account, for earned 17 income of the child and for any other income transferred from 18 people other than the parents.

19 Under the Chairman's proposal, simply a transfer to the 20 child, regardless of whom it was from, would be a transfer 21 that would be subject to tax if the income exceeded, under 22 this proposal, roughly $5,000.00 in the hands of the child.

23 So the differences between the two is, one, it will hit 24 more transfers than the Administration's for more different 25 types of people and --

1 The Chairman. The Administration is limited to parents' 2 transfers?

3 Mr. Brockway. Is limited to parents, but then it is the 4 first dollar.

5 The Chairman. I understand.

6 Mr. Brockway. And so that your proposal would be transfers 7 even from grandparents, but it gives them an exemption of 8 $4,000.00.

9 Senator Moynihan. Mr. Chairman, I think this is a 10 useful point. I know it would help all of us if as proposals 11 of this kind came along we could get the numbers that are 12 associated -- how many would be affected versus the effect of 13 the President's proposal and the House proposal, our 14 proposal.

15 Mr. Colvin. Senator Moynihan, with respect to this 16 particular provision, there would be 1,500,000 affected 17 by the House bill and 50,000 affected by the Chairman's 18 proposal.

19 Senator Moynihan. Could we hear that again?

20 Mr. Colvin. One million, five hundred thousand by the 21 House bill and 50,000 under the Chairman's proposal.

22 Senator Moynihan. Now, Mr. Brockway, we depend on your 23 absolutely, but what you told me just then, sir, you didn't 24 tell me that we went from one and a half million to 50,000.00?
25 You indicated there was an equity from both sides.

1 Mr. Jenner. Senator, the threshold under the House bill 2 is $1,000.00. There are substantially a greater number of 3 children with unearned income above $1,000.00.

4 Senator Moynihan. I know that. I bet you --

5 The Chairman. But in fairness, either proposal catches 6 the very rich, the very rich. The question is: You want to 7 come down and catch the children whose income is between the 8 $1,000.00 and $5,000.00 bracket, which does not take an 9 overwhelming trust to be in an income bracket of earning 10 interest of -- I mean an income of $1,000.00 to $5,000.00.

11 Mr. Jenner. That is correct, Mr. Chairman.

12 Our concern in drafting the proposal as we did was the 13 comments that we received about the House bill which indicated 14 that people would be able to avoid the House rule, rich parents 15 would be able to avoid the House rule, simply by giving gifts 16 to the grandparents which two years later would be given back 17 to the children. Thus, avoiding the tracing to the parent.

18 So the House rule could be gamed effectively very easily.

19 And that was the concern that we had.

20 Senator Chafee. Mr. Chairman?

21 The Chairman. Senator Chafee.

22 Senator Chafee. Mr. Chairman, let us, if we could, review 23 the bidding here on this item. First of all, as I understand 24 what we are talking about here, we are not talking of trusts 25 or anything; we are talking of gifts. If you give to your 1 child a $5,000.00 bank account or savings account, under the 2 present law, obviously, that is -- the income on that is 3 taxed to the child, whatever the child's rates are.

4 Now under the proposal, as I understand it, here, that 5 would -- under the President's proposal, would tax unearned 6 income of a child under 14 to the child at the top marginal 7 rates of the parents. So that is as if you just hadn't given 8 a gift.

9 Now stick with the President's proposal here. When the 10 child gets -- with respect to -- what about when the child 11 gets over 14?

12 Mr. Brockway. Then the present law, rule, would apply. The 13 child under either proposal at that point would be taxed at 14 his own rate bracket structure as under current law on all 15 earned and unearned income.

16 Senator Chafee. Well, what is the philosophy here? What 17 are we trying to -- I don't get it. What is going on?

18 Mr. Brockway. The concern of both the proposals is a 19 practice that has developed under present law; is that 20 parents or grandparents, what have you, might transfer income 21 producing property to children to get a separate run up through 22 the rate brackets qualifying for -- under present law, you 23 cannot qualify for the standard deduction, but you do get the 24 personal exemption, and then you get through the lower rate 25 brackets all the way up. And so that if you can transfer

1 property to the child, you can effectively average the income 2 with each of the children you wish to transfer income to.

3 Senator Chafee. Yes, but it is gone. It is not -- there 4 are not rights of reversion of the property. It is an outright 5 gift, right?

6 Mr. Brockway. It may or may not be. Legally, in order 7 for it to work, that would be the case. But, obviously, 8 these are situations where you have children under 14, 9 children that the parent has responsibility, legal 10 responsibility, to take care of all of its expenses. And, 11 obviously, the parent is the one that controls the finances 12 of the child so that there is a certain enforcement problem 13 as well under present law as to whether in fact it was a 14 bona fide gift.

15 Senator Chafee. Are you saying that there is something 16 different between a child under 14 and a child over 14?

17 Mr. Brockway. Well, I think the reason for switching it 18 at 14 was that at 14 is the age you can start earning income 19 legally generally; the earliest time you can earn income 20 yourself as a child. So, therefore, there might be more 21 likelihood that the income was generated by earnings of the 22 child himself rather than as a result of a transfer from the 23 parent in order to take the benefit of the difference in 24 rate structures. Although it should be pointed out that all 25 these proposals don't turn on the intent of whether there was

1 a tax avoidance motive. They simply say that if the property, 2 income earning property, is in the hands of a minor child 3 then it will be subject to tax at the parents' rate.

4 Senator Chafee. I am sorry if I missed it. Did you give 5 the revenue estimates here?

6 Mr. Jenner. It is $500 million, Senator.

7 Senator Chafee. Five hundred million. On the President's 8 proposal?

9 Mr. Jenner. No. Under ours.

10 Senator Moynihan. Give us both.

11 Senator Chafee. Why don't we have both?

12 Mr. Colvin. The President's proposal is $1.2
13 billion, the House bill is $1.4 billion and the Chairman's 14 proposal is --

15 Senator Chafee. Wait. Slow down. You are going too 16 fast. The President's proposal is one point two.

17 Mr. Colvin. One point two.

18 Senator Chafee. That it picks up. All right.

19 Mr. Colvin. The House bill is one point four.

20 Senator Chafee. How can the House bill be more if it says 21 the same as the President's?

22 Mr. Brockway. The problem is -- and I will have to get 23 back to your numbers -- is that the revenue you have is for 24 both one and two under the proposal. And there are different 25 proposals under A2 under the House bill than under the 1 Administration's bill.

2 Senator Chafee. Oh, I see. You take -- you are taking 3 one and two here and so two loses -- or two picks up $200 4 million.

5 Mr. Brockway. I will try and get the precise break-out.

6 Senator Chafee. So these figures you are giving us are 7 for items one and two?

8 Mr. Brockway. That is correct.

9 Senator Chafee. Now what does the Chairman's proposal 10 produce?

11 Mr. Brockway. The Chairman's proposal, unlike the 12 Administration, which -- assuming you didn't qualify for 13 the exemption for a gift from a person other than a parent, 14 the Administration would tax you on the first dollar in 15 amounts earned from property transferred from a parent.

16 Under the Chairman's proposal, you would be taxed only 17 on unearned income, or the child would be taxed only on 18 unearned income in excess of $4,000.00.

19 Now the child also would have a $1,000.00 personal 20 exemption as well that would be applicable to unearned income.
21 So a child under 14 under the Chairman's proposal would be 22 taxed at his own rates up to $5,000.00. And then it would 23 be taxed at the parents' rate regardless of whether the 24 property generating the unearned income came from the parents 25 or came from the grandparents or from some other transfer.

1 Under the Administration's proposal, it would only apply 2 with respect to amounts transferred by the parents themselves.
3 Then, as I say, it would be taxed at first dollar.

4 Senator Chafee. Mr. Chairman, I must say I see a lot of 5 revenue here so this is the tempting factor here. Outside 6 of that, it seems like a strange proposal.

7 Senator Moynihan. Would my colleague yield for just a 8 general comment?

9 The Chairman. Senator Moynihan.

10 Senator Moynihan. Is that all right, Senator Chafee?

11 Senator Chafee. Yes, sure.

12 Senator Moynihan. I just want to make the point that 13 at the beginning of this -- I don't want to make every time, 14 but, Mr. Chairman, you know, you and I have been on this 15 Committee 10 years, friends, allies and so on, and here came 16 along a situation which I asked about why aren't we using 17 the President's proposal. And the staff of the Joint 18 Committee made the general proposition about, well, one 19 proposal is like this and the other proposal is like that.
20 I would say illuminating but not very specific.

21 Only when we press do we learn that the President's 22 proposal affects 1.5 million people and our proposal affects 23 50,000. Only when we press do we find the House provision 24 has $1.4 billion in revenues and ours point five.

25 If we have to drag that out --

1           The Chairman. Senator Moynihan, in fairness, the 2 Joint Committee, I think, is willing to respond to every 3 question. But if they are going to tell us everything they 4 know on every subject whether we want to know it or not, we 5 are going to be here through the rest of the year.

6           Senator Moynihan. But I was eight years on the 7 Intelligence Committee and so was Senator Chafee, and if there 8 is one thing we learned it was -- and Senator Durenberger, 9 Mr. Chairman -- God help you if you have got a witness in 10 front of you and you don't know what questions to ask him 11 and he only answers the ones that are asked.

12           We always will want to know how many people are involved 13 and how much money.

14           The Chairman. Obviously, when you go from zero to 15 $4,000.00, you are going to exempt some people. Neither of 16 us exempt the very rich. The way the bill passed the House, 17 it upset tremendously people -- and made it more complicated -- 18 people that were involved in these kinds of gifts and 19 estates. We more or less kept the rules but changed the 20 rates. And now they don't like that either, although they 21 suggested that would be preferable to the House bill. But I 22 understand why they don't like it and they would just as 23 soon keep the law the way it is.

24           The question is: Do you want to tax a minor who happens 25 to receive a gift of $25,000.00 or $30,000.00 from a parent and

1 you would very quickly be over a $1,000.00 exemption? Or do 2 you want to say we really mean this for not just parents but 3 parents or grandparents or uncles who make major transfers of 4 income to their children principally for the purpose of lower-5 ing their rates of taxation.

6 Mr. Mentz. Mr. Chairman?

7 The Chairman. Mr. Secretary.

8 Mr. Mentz. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Let me just try 9 to illuminate a little bit more the President's proposal and 10 the philosophy behind it.

11 First, I would like to say our numbers differ in terms 12 of the number of people affected. Based on 1983 levels of 13 income, we show 265,000 people affected by the President's 14 proposal and between 25,000 and 30,000 affected by the 15 Chairman's proposal. So there is a difference there.

16 But let me get to the philosophy. The Administration 17 looked at the problem as a matter of money that is within 18 a household that is simply put in the name of a child for the 19 sole purpose of getting a reduced tax rate to apply to it, 20 money that for all practical purposes is household money 21 comingled with or could be comingled with the father and 22 the mother's money. And it was that problem that we were 23 addressing.

24 We were not trying to deal with the bona fide gift from an 25 uncle or a grandparent or a tort award or income that the

1 child earned. I recognize that the Chairman has taken care
2 of those last two. But it is the philosophy of trying to get 3 at the problem where the money is all basically household 4 money and the only difference is it is being used -- it is 5 being taxed at a lower rate because it is transferred to a 6 child under 14. That is the reason the President went after 7 that particular target, and that is the reason he has thrown 8 a little broader net. It is more people than the Chairman's 9 proposal. And it raises more money.

10 Senator Chafee. Mr. Chairman?

11 The Chairman. I might add that last Friday the Joint 12 Committee passed out, at least to the staffs because they were 13 requested to, revenue estimates that cover a fair variety of 14 sections including this and quite a number of others. You 15 have to look through it. It is about a -- oh, I would judge 16 looking at it -- a 15-paged document. But they have the 17 President, House and the Chairman's proposal with comparative 18 revenue estimates, including the one that we are on.

19 Senator Chafee.

20 Senator Chafee. Mr. Chairman, as I say, I have trouble
21 with this entire proposal. And if we are going to do it, I 22 have a feeling we ought to do it. And if we are not going to 23 do it, we should not do it. But we seem to be having a 24 compromise here that leads us into all kinds of problems.

25 For example, what are you going to do in your exception

1 here, Mr. Mentz? You have got the income earned from tort 2 recoveries. Now what happens if one parent dies and leaves 3 life insurance? How is that? Where are we then? Is that a 4 gift?

5 Mr. Mentz. Are you speaking about the Chairman's proposal
6 or the President's proposal?

7 Senator Chafee. Well, I guess I am on the Chairman's 8 proposal. Who is responsible for this? Mr. Colvin? Mr.
9 Jenner?

10 What happens if one parent dies and there is some life 11 insurance that goes to a child? Is that exempted?

12 Mr. Jenner. Not under our proposal, no.

13 Senator Chafee. Well, why not? What is the difference -- 14 a tort recovery and the parent leaving some life insurance?

15 Mr. Jenner. Again, we are assuming that that child is 16 residing with the surviving spouse. And then it is the same 17 concern we would have in any transfer of income from a parent 18 to a minor child; that that income would be available for use 19 by the household. This would be quite consistent, I would 20 think, with the Administration's concerns where it was a 21 transfer to a minor child by a living parent in that the 22 income would be available for use by the parent, in this case, 23 the surviving spouse, as freely as it would be if it were 24 an inter vivos transfer from a living parent to the child.

25 Mr. Mentz. Although, Senator, I would point out that the 1 Administration's proposal would exempt transfers of death.

2 So in that particular case, that transfer would not be 3 subject to the President's proposal.

4 Senator Chafee. You may have said this, again, but let 5 us hear it once again if we could, please. You may have said 6 it previously, Mr. Jenner.

7 What is the rationale for the exemptions in the Chairman's 8 proposal, the first $4,000.00? Is that just considered 9 de minimis?

10 Mr. Jenner. It is a concern, Senator, that parents do 11 transfer income to their children for legitimate non-taxable 12 reasons. We were concerned that the Administration and the 13 House threshold of $1,000.00 was much too low, brought in too 14 many children whose parents might have transferred assets 15 to them for non-tax reasons.

16 We were concerned with the transfers that looked as if 17 they were for tax avoidance reasons. If you look at the 18 exemption level under our proposal, assuming that the 19 assets would be earning a 10 percent rate of return, which, 20 of course, is high in today's world, you would have to have 21 $50,000.00 in an account before you ever reached the 22 threshold under our proposal.

23 That is a relatively high level, and it picks up only 24 theoretically those people who we are concerned about, those 25 who are shifting significant amounts of assets to their

1 children for tax avoidance reasons; not the parents who are 2 transferring assets to their children for college savings.

3 Senator Chafee. For who?

4 Mr. Jenner. College savings, savings for college 5 tuition.

6 Senator Chafee. Four thousand dollars is not going to get 7 you very far in college.

8 Mr. Jenner. But that is income, Senator. That is not 9 assets. Assuming a 10 percent rate of return, you would need 10 $40,000.00 in the bank to ever hit the $4,000.00 level. And 11 under our proposal it is $4,000.00 plus one, so you have to 12 have $5,000.00 of unearned income not from -- not generated 13 by earned income or tort recovery in order to reach the 14 threshold.

15 Senator Chafee. I just want to ask Mr. Mentz one other 16 question.

17 The Chairman. Go ahead. Then I want to make a comment 18 and move on, hopefully.

19 Senator Chafee. All right.

20 Mr. Mentz, take the President's proposals -- what are 21 the administrative problems involved with that?

22 Mr. Mentz. Well, I would say the principal administrative 23 problem is setting up qualified segregated account. In 24 other words, identifying funds that have come from a source 25 other than the parents. It is -- if that cannot be done, then

1 the child is taxed at the parent's rate. However, it is 2 of course worth doing and presumably not that many people are 3 in that category -- even under the President's proposal, 4 265,000. It is a matter of some accounting that would be 5 worth doing.

6 Senator Chafee. Well, Mr. Chairman, just in conclusion 7 let me just say that I would point out to everyone that your 8 proposal loses a billion dollars, $900 million, from the 9 President's. And I think we ought to bear that in mind, if 10 we are going to do it. Well, anyway, you lose it.

11 The Chairman. In defense of my proposal, I will say I was 12 trying to balance off as with many of these.

13 Senator Chafee. Pardon?

14 The Chairman. I was trying to balance off as I was with 15 many of these. Fairness versus making sure that the very wealthy 16 do not escape taxes, whether it be in a minimum tax or tax 17 shifting to their children. And it seemed to me that 18 basically a $4,000.00 plus a $1,000.00 threshold was not an 19 exemption for the very, very rich. We are still going to 20 catch them.

21 If you want to go down to the President's proposal, you 22 can catch a million and a half children. And you can tax 23 any kind of gifts from middle income people or even lower 24 middle income people, if that is the choice of the Committee.

25 But in terms of taxing the very rich, we are going to catch

1 them under either the Administration's proposal or my 2 proposal. And, secondly, under mine, you are going to catch 3 those from transfers that come from other -- or I should say 4 in addition to parents.

5 Senator Danforth.

6 Senator Danforth. Mr. Chairman, when is the age 14 7 significant? I mean somebody becomes 14 on April the 8th. Is 8 that prorated?

9 Mr. Jenner. I believe, Senator, it is the year in which 10 the person turns 14 that they are no longer subject to this 11 rule.

12 Senator Danforth. Thank you.

13 The Chairman. All right. Can we move on to the income 14 taxation of trusts and estates? Page 211 in the book. And, 15 again, let me reannounce to the members that have come in 16 that starting tomorrow we are going to have to meet both 17 mornings and afternoons if we hope to finish on a schedule 18 that I hope we can finish on. And that is to get the 19 markup done by early May so that the staff can have time to 20 prepare it and get the Committee report ready so members can 21 look at it after it is done so that those outside the Senate 22 can have a chance to review it. And all of that needs to be 23 done by early May so that we can start on the Floor on this, 24 I would hope, in early June.

25 And if we slip past that deadline and don't finish this

1 until June and get on the Floor in July with a two and a half 2 week recess coming in July, I would fear for the life of the 3 bill at all.

4 So we will be going mornings and afternoons. This 5 Friday, we have a hearing. We are going off this subject.
6 We are having a hearing on the Administration's request to 7 start negotiations on the free trade agreement between 8 Canada and the United States.

9 But short of that, we will be meeting mornings and 10 afternoons Monday through Friday for at least the next two 11 to three weeks. And we will be having votes on some of the 12 topics we have gone through, although I will try to have those 13 votes in the morning when we are less likely to be 14 interrupted by votes than in the afternoon.

15 Senator Moynihan. Mr. Chairman, as you know, I was 16 alone -- only you and I were here when this first came up, 17 and I was speaking generally for the Committee when I said 18 it seems to be it was a rather early notice that we would be 19 on a five-day schedule. And is it clear that this coming 20 Monday and the following Monday?

21 The Chairman. It is not an early notice. I announced this 22 prior, and several times prior, to --

23 Senator Moynihan. Consider the inattentiveness of some 24 Committee members.

25 The Chairman. Well, they are a very attentive lot by and

1 large, and I think it was also sent out in writing. I 2 indicated that we would be going Monday through Friday prior 3 to the recess.

4 Senator Moynihan. If that is your wish, sir, we will do.
5 But everybody wants to know this.

6 The Chairman. Senator Bradley.

7 Senator Bradley. Mr. Chairman, does that mean we will 8 begin tomorrow and go morning and afternoon, including this 9 Friday?

10 The Chairman. We will not go this Friday afternoon 11 because we are going to go Friday morning on the proposed 12 Canadian-American free trade. But we will go mornings and 13 afternoons next week.

14 And I will try, if we have gone through a section -- and 15 the members have been very good, and I appreciate it, about 16 giving me amendments that they think they want to bring up on 17 sections we have covered. It makes it very helpful if you 18 know that there are only going to be two or three amendments 19 and the members have talked to you about them and they look 20 like they are relatively easy to handle. You can take up a 21 section that -- I mean take up a section and vote on it that 22 you have considered. If you have got 30 or 40 amendments, 23 that is another matter.

24 Senator Bradley. Mr. Chairman, in regard to that, I 25 believe you said that tomorrow we would deal with

1 depreciation. Is that correct?

2 The Chairman. I would like, if we could, to take up
3 votes tomorrow. We are very close to an agreement, I think, 4 on depreciation. But I would like to take up votes on 5 whatever amendments members may have to the energy and natural 6 resource section. And if we can do also depreciation the 7 same day, I would like to.

8 Senator Bradley. In regard to depreciation, I should let 9 you know, as I said when we discussed this, that I was waiting 10 for numbers to come back from Joint Tax Committee. I hope 11 to be getting those numbers soon. I cannot formulate my 12 amendment until I get the numbers.

13 Senator Pryor. Mr. Chairman.

14 Senator Baucus. Mr. Chairman.

15 The Chairman. Senator Pryor and then Senator Baucus.

16 Senator Pryor. Mr. Chairman, now Friday morning on the 17 Canadian free trade agreement, will there be votes on Friday 18 morning?

19 The Chairman. On the Canadian free trade agreement?

20 Senator Pryor. On the Canadian free trade.

21 The Chairman. It is a hearing.

22 Senator Pryor. It is a hearing.

23 The Chairman. I know what you are saying. If we are 24 going to vote one way or the other on this, we have a time 25 deadline, but it is a hearing on Friday morning.

1 Senator Pryor. Now I am sorry I was not here earlier 2 when you and Senator Moynihan, I think, were the only two 3 members for a while. Was it announced this morning when you 4 might hold a hearing on the excise tax provisions? Has that 5 date been set?

6 The Chairman. I did not announce it. I think it is a 7 week from Monday, isn't it?

8 Mr. Colvin. That's correct, Mr. Chairman.

9 The Chairman. On the 21st.

10 Senator Pryor. On the 21st of April?

11 The Chairman. Right.

12 Senator Pryor. Now have the people who will be giving 13 the testimony already -- have they been selected for that, 14 Mr. Chairman, or would we have any input into possible 15 witnesses?

16 The Chairman. They have not been selected. What I would 17 hope to do, however, is pick representative witnesses for 18 an industry where by and large one or two people can speak for 19 15 or 20 members of the industry. And I am going to try to 20 conduct the hearings all in one way although I assume they 21 will go morning and afternoon. But as of yet, there have been 22 no witnesses selected.

23 Senator Pryor. I thank you, Mr. Chairman.

24 The Chairman. Senator Baucus.

25 Senator Baucus. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. You announced

1 the votes Mondays and Fridays.

2 The Chairman. Pardon me?

3 Senator Baucus. When you announced votes Mondays and 4 Fridays, is that your intention or is that going to be the 5 case? What I am getting at is sometimes there are 6 exceptions. I hear one already on the 21st.

7 The Chairman. That is correct.

8 Senator Baucus. That is going to be a hearing.

9 The Chairman. We are going to have hearings that day on 10 the excise tax.

11 Senator Baucus. And there also will not be votes on 12 Friday.

13 The Chairman. That is correct.

14 Senator Baucus. Now what other days will there not be 15 votes? Mr. Chairman, the reason I am asking you this, as 16 you well know, there are good intentions around here, 17 sometimes on the Floor and sometimes on the Committee. And 18 often, as it turns out for whatever reason, we don't meet, 19 we don't have votes. And if you are this morning announcing 20 that there are going to votes on Mondays and on Fridays, I 21 would like to know whether there will be votes on Mondays and 22 Fridays or will there sometimes be exceptions to that rule.

23 The Chairman. There will on occasion be exceptions, but 24 I am not sure how far ahead of time -- other than scheduled 25 hearings like on other subjects -- I can announce them.

1 Because what may happen is we are trying to get through today
2 the section on the trusts and estates and also the section 3 on pensions and employee benefits. And if we get through with 4 those, I would like to go on to some votes tomorrow on energy 5 and depreciation.

6 But if we don't get through with pensions and employee 7 benefits this afternoon, the schedule may slip now and then.
8 All I can say is that henceforth I would like to be able to 9 have votes. Most of them would take place in the mornings.
10 I understand the problems in the afternoon with both 11 constituent appointments and votes on the Senate Floor that 12 are going to take us away from here. So I would use the 13 afternoons more likely for continued discussion of subjects 14 that we have already started or discussion on subjects we 15 haven't yet covered.

16 But there is the possibility of votes on Mondays and 17 on Fridays. But not on this Friday and not on the Monday that 18 we have the hearings on the excise tax.

19 Senator Baucus. Now we are getting some place. Is there 20 a possibility of votes Mondays or Fridays or will there be 21 votes Mondays and Fridays?

22 The Chairman. Well, I can't tell you. Maybe nobody 23 will offer any amendments and there won't be any votes at 24 all. I don't know. Do you mean am I precluding the 25 possibility of votes on a Friday or a Monday? The answer is 1 no.

2 Senator Baucus. What I am getting at is do you firmly 3 intend to keep the scheduled votes on Mondays and Fridays or 4 something might come up and we might not meet on some 5 Monday or some Friday for whatever reason and we may not 6 know about it until low and behold we are not meeting 7 Monday or Friday.

8 The Chairman. It is not my intention. As a matter of 9 practice, it would be unlikely we would have votes on a 10 Friday afternoon. It would be unlikely we would have votes 11 on a Monday morning even if we were meeting. But we would 12 be meeting then to continue on the discussion of sections 13 that we had either covered and that we hadn't yet covered.

14 Senator Baucus. Mr. Chairman, if we do stick with this 15 tightened scheduled, I think it would be only fair to members 16 of the Committee for you to outline on what dates what 17 subjects, at this point, you think we will consider them.

18 The Chairman. I announced earlier, and I will try to.
19 I will give to the Committee members an outline date by date 20 of what I would like to accomplish on that day so long as the 21 Committee realizes that it may slip; we just don't finish.

22 Senator Baucus. When will we get that outline? How far 23 in advance?

24 The Chairman. Is that ready today?

25 Mr. Colvin. Yes, Mr. Chairman.

1           The Chairman. Yes.

2           Senator Baucus. And I am asking for, if we can have it, 3 is an outline for the rest of the markup. The best that you 4 can determine it.

5           The Chairman. So long as if you are willing to say is the 6 best I can determine it, realizing there are going to be a 7 slippage of two or three days. If I try to say three weeks 8 from now, three weeks from Monday, which section we will be 9 on, I may miss it by quite a bit.

10          Senator Baucus. Why don't you give us the order?

11          The Chairman. I think I can give you the order with some 12 degree of definiteness. And that, at least, the day before 13 we recessed, I announced the order of the first eight or 14 nine topics we would be taking up this week, always leaving 15 the possibility of coming back to a section we had covered 16 for votes. But listed eight or nine topics. But I will get 17 those again to you this afternoon. And probably even beyond 18 that in terms of the order that we will take them up, and 19 some idea as to the days I would like to hit them.

20          Senator Baucus. All right. Thank you.

21          The Chairman. Now let us go on to the income taxation of 22 trusts and estates.

23          Senator Moynihan. Mr. Chairman, how would I record that 24 I would like to offer the President's proposal as an amendment 25 when we come around together on this subject?

1           The Chairman. You can consider it offered now. It helps 2 if I could have a notice in writing that you want to do it.
3 But that is fine, and I appreciate it. So we are not 4 blind-sided, and so I have a rough idea of how many 5 amendments are coming up because that helps with the 6 scheduling.

7           Senator Moynihan. So when you get around to this, I 8 will offer that amendment.

9           Senator Bradley. Mr. Chairman, I should say as well --

10          The Chairman. Senator Chafee.

11          Senator Chafee. Senator Moynihan is referring to this 12 subject here we just --

13          Senator Moynihan. Unearned income of a minor child.

14          Senator Bradley. Mr. Chairman, just in spirit of letting 15 you know on amendments, I will probably be offering some 16 amendments on the natural resource section as well.

17          The Chairman. Good. Thank you.

18          Income taxation of trusts and estates.

19          Mr. Colvin. Mr. Chairman --

20          The Chairman. Page 211. John.

21          Mr. Colvin. Let me open with a general comment about 22 Pages 211, 212 and 213. After the House had passed its 23 tax reform bill, we heard from member offices and from the 24 public complaints about the complexity of the trust 25 provisions. And so the Chairman's proposal includes an

1 alternative approach to trusts. It addresses the same 2 problem, but it does it in a way that is significantly more 3 simple than the House approach.

4 The problem is income shifting to trusts. And the 5 solution contained in the Chairman's proposal on Page 211 is 6 to tighten the tax brackets that apply to trusts. It leaves 7 in tact trust law as it now stands, but it does take much of 8 the financial advantage out of income shifting to trust.

9 The Chairman. Basically, I have just compressed the 10 rates.

11 Mr. Colvin. Yes, sir.

12 The Chairman. Discussion?

13 Senator Chafee. For what?

14 The Chairman. Again, attempting to as much as possible 15 discourage the wealthy from attempting to transfer income to 16 their children and to lower the aggregate family taxation rate 17 in doing so. And by "aggregate family taxation," I, in 18 essence, mean the taxes that the principal earning spouse is 19 probably paying. And by compressing the rates, I was able to 20 do so.

21 Senator Chafee. Well, I don't quite get the rationale.

22 Are trusts bad?

23 The Chairman. There are legitimate reasons for trusts, 24 but if we are trying to inject fairness and the concept of 25 fairness in the bill, one of the legitimate reasons is not to 1 use it for the principal reason of escaping or lowering 2 taxation.

3 If that becomes the principal reason, it is like the 4 criticisms we have had of investments in tax shelters where 5 the investments are made for tax purposes; not economic 6 purposes. The purpose of creating a trust, the principal 7 purpose of creating a trust, should not be for the avoidance 8 of taxation.

9 Senator Durenberger. Mr. Chairman.

10 Senator Chafee. Well, let me just continue this. Well, 11 go ahead.

12 Senator Durenberger. John, this is a related question to 13 clarify it. Let me ask the Chairman because I think he 14 probably understands the President's motivation maybe better 15 than the rest of us. And this is applicability in general to 16 the function of a 35 percent rate or a lower rate. Is there 17 a point at which the marginal rate discourages the 18 utilization of these kinds of tax minimizing measures? And 19 should we even be thinking about that as we go through these 20 relatively small, relatively targeted kinds of provisions?

21 The Chairman. You mean as the rates get lower, the 22 incentive for creating any of these trusts or making any of 23 these gifts is reduced?

24 Senator Durenberger. That is right.

25 The Chairman. It is. And I tried to take that into

1 account. And over and over I have asked people in the past 2 at what rate they would not care any longer about deductions 3 or trusts, and they say, well, at about 25 percent. At that 4 case, the incentive for gifts and trusts and deductions
5 almost disappear. And most people are willing to say, gee, 6 if I have made $100,000.00, I will pay $25,000.00 taxes.

7 Over the years, I would like to push us down toward that 8 25 percent rate so that we could once again visit the whole 9 issue of base broadening without the political downsides that 10 we now have. But I tried to consider the fact that at a 35 11 percent rate there is less incentive for somebody to create 12 a trust than at a 50 percent rate. And that was less than 13 a 70 percent rate.

14 Senator Durenberger. If John will excuse me again, will 15 that be sort of a philosophy that might guide us in this 16 particular section as we are comparing the Chairman's
17 proposal with the President's proposal and the House 18 proposal where, in effect, it looks like they are minimizing 19 except down under zero bracket in the exemption? They are 20 minimizing the utilization of these household transfers almost 21 entirely; whereas, the Chairman is trying to, I think, target 22 the utilization of these at higher income --

23 The Chairman. That is correct. You grasp it exactly.
24 For those that I call the very wealthy, although that I 25 suppose is a subjective standard, depending upon where you are

1 in the income scale. But I was trying to say that for the 2 very wealthy I still think at 35 percent there is an 3 incentive to attempt an income shift to their children.

4 And I tried to set a threshold. And I don't want to use 5 the word "de minimis," because to most Americans $5,000.00 in 6 interest, if we are talking about the previous section, is 7 not de minimis.

8 But for purposes of income tax shifting, I think 9 relatively few people are going to try to do it at the 10 $5,000.00 level. And that is the reason for the threshold 11 in the previous section.

12 Senator Durenberger. I thank you.

13 The Chairman. Senator Armstrong.

14 Senator Armstrong. Mr. Chairman, I don't think I have 15 any particular problem with the trust section. So far as it 16 applies to new trusts, I think it is going to shut them down.
17 I don't think anybody is going to do it much, but that is 18 your intention, and we understand that purpose.

19 My question relates to those that are already in 20 existence. As I understand it, you would apply these new and 21 much higher rates to non-grantor trusts that are already 22 in existence, which by definition are trusts where people 23 have made decisions based on present law and have not retained 24 unto themselves any power to change the arrangement. That is, 25 to take back the assets or dissolve the trust. That seems, if

1 I understand it correctly, to be unjust.

2 Mr. Jenner. Mr. Chairman, if I may. One of the major 3 criticisms of the House bill, and I would, in fact, say the 4 major criticism, is that it set up two different parallel 5 tracks for existing and new trusts. The new system under 6 the House bill would have applied only to existing trusts.
7 The old system would have applied to old trusts.
8 Practitioners in the field were concerned that they would 9 have to keep track of what was new, what was old. You get 10 into the question of whether new assets added to an old trust 11 are taxed under the new law or under the old law, whether 12 you have some sort of blended mechanism.

13 It becomes much simpler and well within Congress' power 14 to simply change rates. Bear in mind also that most of these 15 trusts are allowed to distribute income under our proposal to 16 the beneficiary. Once the income is distributed, it is taxed 17 at the beneficiary's rate and not the trust. So the change 18 would never apply to these trusts. It is only to the extent 19 that income is accumulated in the trust that the new rates 20 would apply.

21 Senator Armstrong. Well, Mr. Chairman, nobody is 22 disputing the power of Congress to do this and nobody is 23 disputing the simplicity of simply making a change like this.
24 My point is quite different.

25 It seems to me to be unjust. That when people make

1 irrevocable arrangements based upon a principle of taxation
2 that has existed as long as I know, then to precipitously 3 change it seems to me to be unfair; particularly, when the 4 people involved are stuck.

5 I mean I recognize we could tax all these trusts at 6 100 percent, and they still couldn't change their arrange-7 ments because that is the nature of the trust we are talking 8 about.

9 Do we have, may I ask, an estimate of the revenue effect 10 of making this prospective rather than retrospective? Could 11 we get that?

12 Mr. Brockway. We will get it for you.

13 Senator Armstrong. My concern is not with the money in 14 it at all but simply that it seems unfair, and maybe there is 15 some way we can resolve it. And there may not be any large 16 number of people affected. I would judge that it is not a 17 huge item, but I would like to at least take a look at it.
18 I may offer an amendment on this subject.

19 The Chairman. Secretary Mentz.

20 Mr. Mentz. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

21 I would like to add the Treasury's support to the 22 Chairman's proposal here. Subchapter J is a very complex 23 area of the tax law, and I think that what Mr. Colvin said 24 at the beginning of his remarks is exactly correct. That 25 making a major change in Subchapter J and setting up a

1 two-track system where new trusts would be under a whole 2 new tax regime and existing trusts would be under the old 3 tax regime would complicate it greatly.

4 The proposal that you have come up with is one that 5 takes care of the abusive cases. It takes care of the 6 so-called spousal remainder trust where a husband puts money 7 in trust for his child and the income goes to pay his college 8 expenses and then it reverts back to his wife, and that 9 income is taxed at a lower rate. But when really you get 10 finished, it just goes around in a circle and nothing really 11 has happened.

12 It also takes care of the Clifford Trust, which, again, is 13 basically an income shifting mechanism explicitly sanctioned 14 under present law. And I think that you take into account 15 the lower rates. Remember, we do have a top rate here of 16 35 percent, and that is for any kind of an accumulating trust, 17 a complex trust. A 35 percent rate is going to mean less 18 taxes, not more, for the typical trust.

19 Senator Armstrong. Mr. Secretary, take a look at the 20 smaller trusts, the zero to $5,000.00 annual income. That 21 rate is 15 percent in here. And comparing that with the 22 present bracket, that is not such a favorable treatment.

23 Mr. Mentz. Well, that is true, but there aren't that 24 many trusts set up at that -- I won't say there are none, and 25 I take your point, Senator Armstrong. But there is sort of a

1 de minimis point where it really isn't worth it to set up a 2 trust, the paperwork, the trustee's fees, the administration
3 and so forth. It just isn't productive to do it.

4 When you get into a trust that is larger than that and 5 it is income of $50,000.00 or $100,000.00, you are 6 benefitting that trust through lower rates even though you 7 have compressed the rate brackets. So I think all things 8 considered, your proposal, Treasury supports it over its own 9 proposal.

10 Senator Armstrong. Mr. Secretary, I just want to be sure 11 we understand each other because I guess this is not the 12 moment to argue it through to a conclusion. But the 13 $100,000.00 a year income trust would be at the 35 percent 14 bracket anyway. Am I mistaken about that?

15 Mr. Mentz. Yes, that is right. But what I am saying is 16 if you were under current law, it would be in a bracket higher 17 than 35 percent.

18 Senator Armstrong. I understand that. But the issue here 19 is whether to justify a separate track of rates, a separate 20 rate schedule, for these trusts rather than putting them on 21 the individual tax rate structure which they have been on at 22 the present time.

23 And in support of the proposition for a separate schedule 24 of rates, I thought I heard you make the point that the 25 little guys, it wouldn't matter because it is only a few

1 dollars, and the big guys are getting a break on the rates.
2 My point is somebody who has got $50,000.00 or $100,000.00 a 3 year income in such a trust is taxed at the top bracket 4 anyway either on this rate schedule or under the new proposed 5 individual rate.

6 So it appears to me that precisely the people who will be 7 disadvantaged by this will be relatively speaking the smaller 8 trusts, not the larger trusts. The larger trusts spill over 9 into that bracket anyway.

10 Mr. Mentz. Yes. There will be a disadvantage to the 11 $100,000.00 trust because going up the rate bracket he will 12 get to 35 earlier than he would if he were under the -- so 13 there is a disadvantage to that case. I take your point, 14 Senator.

15 All I am saying is that particularly for the really little 16 guys, there aren't that many of them because you don't have 17 trusts set up in those cases.

18 Senator Armstrong. I think Mr. Brockway has indicated 19 that he can have that information for us if, as and when we 20 need to consider an amendment.

21 Mr. Brockway. Yes.

22 Senator Armstrong. How many there are and what the 23 revenue impact would be.

24 Senator Bradley. Mr. Chairman?

25 The Chairman. Senator Bradley.

1           Senator Bradley. Would it be possible for the Joint Tax 2 Committee or Treasury to tell us what income level uses 3 trusts? Are trusts used by middle income taxpayers who are 4 on wage income?

5           Mr. Brockway. Well, it certainly wouldn't be on wage 6 income generally. We will see what we can get in terms of 7 information. There should be some information on that.
8 Generally, though, I think you could feel safe in saying the 9 upper middle income and above generally simply because there 10 are certain costs. One, of setting up the trust, legal costs, 11 and then under the current rules, it is fairly complicated 12 to just do the tax return, for example, on trusts the way they 13 operate. So if you have got anything other than a simple 14 trust, it probably is upper middle and above.

15           Mr. Mentz. May I respond?

16           Senator Bradley. Yes.

17           Mr. Mentz. I don't have any precise information, 18 quantitative information, for you, Senator, but I can tell 19 you from years of practice that there are non-tax reasons for 20 setting up trusts. And there are a number of them, 21 particularly testamentary trusts, that are set up by a 22 testator whose property -- and it may not be seven figures or 23 anything like it -- that person wants to leave to children or 24 grandchildren in a way that doesn't permit the child to take 25 the money and zoom off to California with a surf board.

1           So I don't think it is a fair conclusion that trusts 2 are simply a mechanism for the rich to figure out ways to 3 to avoid taxes. There are very clear bona fide non-tax 4 reasons for setting up trusts, as well as tax reasons.

1 The Chairman. In your experience, would many people 2 with wages, incomes, below $30.00 a year--and that is their 3 only source of income--set up trusts?

4 Mr. Mentz. It would depend on what other property
5 they have, Senator. If they don't have any other property, 6 no; there wouldn't be anything to put into the trust.

7 The Chairman. I am talking about the average Jane or 8 Joe that is working, and they own a house. They may have 9 a recreational vehicle. They might be one of those 9 or 11 10 percent that have a second house that is a beach cabin or 11 a mountain cabin, although I am not sure.

12 I listening to the debates on that, I was amazed at how 13 many people I was told fall into the lower income brackets 14 that have second homes.

15 Mr. Mentz. Maybe they are not counting their munitipal 16 bond interest.

17 (Laughter)

18 The Chairman. Which we are going to exempt to the 19 extent of $30,000 and $40,000 from any tax at all, anyway.

20 So, in essence in your practical experience, middle 21 income taxpayers usually do not set up trusts?

22 MR. Mentz. Usually do not, but it can happen that 23 someone will have a home that has greatly appreciated and 24 young children or young beneficiaries, and that person 25 doesn't want to provide the money or the funds immeidately

2
1 for that person to possibly fritter away; and so a 2 testamentary trust is typically created.

3 Senator Chafee. Mr. Chairman?

4 The Chairman. Senator Chafee?

5 Senator Chafee. I want to echo what Mr. Mentz said.

6 Clearly, you have in the testamentary area, particularly with 7 life insurance, people with very modest assets leave trusts
8 for their minor children, and the income is accumulated 9 until the children are of the age to go to college.

10 Now, it is true that under your provision here, it is 11 the undistributed income that is being taxed at these rates;
12 but I think these rates are pretty stiff, and I personally 13 will move at a proper time--and I would like to have some 14 estimates, Mr. Brockway.

15 What would it cost to decompress these rates? I am 16 not going to ask you for it now, but I will later, to juggle 17 these rates around; not to have the 35 or even the 25 18 percent start so early.

19 You must have something on that.

20 Mr. Brockway. Yes, sir. We would just spend some time 21 after the mark-up and go over what would be some hypos you 22 would like us to run, and we can give you the estimates on it.

23 Senator Chafee. All right, because in addition to 24 minor children, you have got disabled children. I think we 25 have all seen instances of trusts being set up for a child

1 that is far from a minor but is disabled in some fashion-- 2 retarded or whatever it might be.

3 So, I just don't subscribe to the view that people who 4 set up trusts are rich.

5 The Chairman. Further discussion on the taxation of 6 trust section before we move on to the taxation of the 7 States?

8 (No response)

9 The Chairman. All right. Let's move on to the taxation 10 of the States, which is on page 215. John, go ahead.

11 Mr. Colvin. Mr. Chairman, under this proposal, the 12 income of an estate beginning the second year after the 13 death of the decedent would be taxed like a trust.

14 In some respects, it is similar to the provision we 15 have just been talking about.

16 The Chairman. Comments? No comments?

17 Senator Bradley. Mr. Chairman, what is the rationale 18 for this change?

19 Mr. Brockway. Generally, under present law, an estate
20 is taxed in the same way as a trust. Under the Chairman's 21 proposal, generally trusts now will have a collapsed rate 22 bracket, rather than as under present law being taxed at 23 the rate of a married person filing singly--separately.

24 Now, they will have a more collapsed rate bracket.

25 What this does is for the first two years after death,

1 treat it at the married person filing separately rate; and 2 then if income and property stays within the State, putting 3 it under the same regime as trusts will be under the proposal, 4 that is, the collapsed rate bracket, so that you don't 5 have the benefit--or it reduces the benefit of keeping 6 income at the State level rather than paying it out.

7 Senator Bradley. I notice under the President's 8 proposal that he raised $600 million from the estates 9 portion; and this provision raises only $200 million.

10 Where did the $400 million go?

11 Mr. Brockway. I don't have a precise breakout on that 12 right now. I think one of the things would be, just in 13 terms of the Administration proposal, it would eliminate 14 the present $600 personal exemption. It would have a cliff.

15 If you went over $600 at the State level in the 16 Administration proposal, then there would be no personal 17 exemption. There is under present law, and there would be 18 under the proposal.

19 That might be one item; but we will be able to get a 20 more precise breakout of the difference between the numbers, 21 between the chairman's and the House bill and the --

22 Senator Bradley. Because, you know, $400 million here 23 and $400 million there, and you are going to be at $1 billion 24 pretty soon.

25 And I think that when we are looking at revenues, I

1 personally would like to know what happened to the $400
2 million in order to be able to determine is it the right 3 thing we should do.

4 I mean, after all what we are talking about, and this 5 is how to get rates down for middle income people; and $400 6 million in increased taxes on the States generally could 7 help get rates down for middle income people in the whole 8 tax reform effort.

9 And I would like to know about where the money is.

10 Mr. Brockway. We will get back to you on the specific 11 rates. There are like five separate different items under 12 the Administration proposal. I don't have a breakout of 13 how much any one of the ones is.

14 I have a suspicion they were estimated as an aggregate 15 pool, but I will try and see what any one of the specific 16 ones as a modification of the chairman's might raise.

17 Senator Moynihan. Mr. Chairman?

18 The Chairman. Senator Moynihan?

19 Senator Moynihan. We have a good presence here at 20 the committee at the moment. I wonder if I could make a 21 suggestion of procedure.

22 On the first day we began this process, I remarked 23 that five years ago this committee marked up a revenue 24 neutral tax bill which produced a decade-long protracted 25 fiscal crisis. It wasn't revenue neutral.

1 We cut back $1 trillion in personal income rates and 2 $1 trillion in business taxes and produced the deficit that 3 has produced the price that we still live with.

4 And I said it seemed to me that the last thing we should 5 do would be to repeat that experience by passing a nominally 6 revenue neutral tax bill that wasn't neutral.

7 And this morning we have had several cases--two now-- 8 where we have a proposal before us as a committee mark-up 9 which raises significantly less revenue than the President's 10 proposal; but we only find that out by persisting in asking 11 questions.

12 And I wonder if it wouldn't be a routine--we have our 13 good friend and much admired Assistant Secretary for Tax 14 Policy, Mr. Mentz, here--if it could not be a routine that 15 when the President's proposal will raise more money than 16 either the House proposal or our proposal, that the routine
17 of our procedure be for the President's representative here 18 to explain that fact or call attention to that fact and 19 explain why, in this nation's view, the President's proposal 20 is preferable, unless on occasion you may have changed your 21 mind, if you think the House came up with or we came up with 22 something better.

23 Does that not --

24 The Chairman. Let me again call to the committee's 25 attention the chart that all of you should have had put out

1 by the Joint Committee last Friday on the comparative 2 provisions to the extent they have them, of the President's 3 proposal, the House bill, and the chairman's proposal, 4 so long as you accept the two caviats.

5 One, the years are different; two, the economic 6 assumptions are different.

7 The House bill and the President's bill were estimated 8 under last year's economic assumptions. The Senate bill, 9 or the chairman's bill, is estimated under the more current 10 assumptions. So, you are going to be off somewhat just on 11 economic assumptions.

12 I have no objection to members asking the Treasury why 13 the difference and the merits of why the difference--what 14 have you done?--realizing that so far the committee has 15 taken great glee in indicating where we lose money.

16 When we come to areas like the minimum tax, we pick up 17 money significantly over the House and significantly over 18 the President's proposal.

19 Senator Moynihan. Reverse the process then.

20 Senator Bradley. Mr. Chairman, so that on every 21 provision where we try to make a comparison, we don't have 22 that answer from Treasury or from you or from Joint Tax, 23 which is why we have different assumptions here, could we 24 get the President's proposal and the House bill based on 25 current budget assumptions?

1           The Chairman. I have asked the Joint Committee to do 2 that; but at the moment, they are going to have to give us 3 a hunch or a guess as to where the differences are because 4 they do not have those, and they cannot run them all that 5 fast.

6           But I have asked them to prepare the running of them, 7 but in some cases we are going to have to make decisions 8 based upon their estimates--I mean, their top-of-the-head 9 estimates.

10          Senator Bradley. So, in a couple of weeks maybe, we 11 will be able to have them?

12          The Chairman. Mr. Brockway?

13          Mr. Brockway. It is a matter of competition for 14 resources. I mean, it is a question of we could go through 15 and devote all the resources to estimating the House bill; 16 and obviously, when you are in conference, that is going to 17 have to be done in any event.

18          The Administration bill, I don't think that we would 19 otherwise try and reestimate that. It takes a fair amount of 20 time to go through that process, and the members have a 21 number of specific proposals and modifications to the 22 chairman's proposal that they would like to see looked at.

23          And I think that those would take priority; but to the 24 extent that we have time, assuming we can complete the work 25 on the various amendments that the members wish to see,

1 we will devote it to the other.

2 Senator Bradley. But you can, off the top of your head, 3 give rough figures?

4 Mr. Brockway. I will do my best to do that.

5 Senator Bradley. If we know that they are rough figures, 6 could he just go through maybe and give us a sheet of rough 7 figures, recognizing that we might have those changed?

8 The Chairman. I would rather have him give us rough 9 figures orally. You get a sheet of rough figures, and those 10 get circulated; and I think that is unfair to the Joint 11 Committee.

12 Senator Bradley. All right.

13 The Chairman. As we go issue by issue, I think he can 14 say I think we are off $200 million; but I am reluctant to 15 have him just go through this whole sheet and say, well, here 16 is my guess as to where I think we are off.

17 Let's go on to Generation, skipping the Transfer Tax.

18 Senator Grassley. Mr. Chairman, just at the tail end of 19 this, I want to bring up a farmer's State tax issue. I don't 20 want to get in the middle of any plans that you have.

21 The Chairman. Let's finish this one; and that is the 22 last of this particular section, so bring it up and mention 23 it before we move onto the issue of Pensions.

24 Senator Baucus. Mr. Chairman, I have a similar one.
25 I have a farmer's State tax provision as well.

1 The Chairman. Go ahead, John, with the Generation
2 Skipping.

3 Mr. Colvin. The chairman's proposal retains current 4 law. The House bill had made significant reforms in the 5 Generation Skipping area.

6 The revenue yield from the three approaches--the 7 Administration, House, and chairman's proposal--according to 8 the Joint Tax figures circulated last Friday is--

9 Excuse me, there would not be a revenue impact on these 10 changes because you are looking at essentially the 11 intermediate generation dying at some point in the future.

12 So, all these generation skipping taxes might some time 13 in the distant future have a significant revenue impact, but 14 in the short run, you are not likely to see any. So that 15 is a de minimus revenue change regardless of present law or 16 the other proposals.

17 The Chairman. Comments on the Generation Skipping 18 section?

19 (No response)

20 The Chairman. If not, let's move to the two issues that 21 Senator Baucus and Senator Grassley have. Senator Grassley, 22 and then Senator Baucus?

23 Senator Grassley. Mr. Chairman and members of the 24 committee, and I will explain to the committee and then staff 25 can listen and then ask if there is any sort of problem the 1 way I look at this.

2 It deals with a period in time in the State tax
3 legislation under the Special Use provision, when we had a 4 15-year requirement that land had to be held to qualify for 5 special use provisions.

6 Then, I think it was in 1981 that we changed that to 7 10 years. And I don't know why we didn't change it for 8 those who were already covered by it, but we didn't do it.

9 So, now we have some with a 15-year requirement and 10 some with a 10-year requirement; and I would like to change 11 it so that all would have a 10-year requirement, and the 12 reason for doing that is because, with the falling land 13 prices, there are people that maybe need to sell their land 14 and they won't have an opportunity to do that without losing 15 the benefit of the special use.

16 It would not be my idea that any of these people could 17 avoid any of the State tax that they would otherwise have to 18 pay in the annual installment that they pay that tax.

19 The Chairman. Senator Baucus?

20 Senator Baucus. Mr. Chairman, my amendment is slightly 21 different. Essentially, it would direct IRS to use the rule 22 of reasonableness when the State tax form is filed, to the 23 degree it conforms with provisions reflecting the special 24 use election.

25 Currently, the IRS is saying that not only must a

1 taxpayer elect at the time that it files the State tax 2 return, but also must at that time file the statement of 3 agreement of errors to the election.

4 In 1984, we did--this committee and by law--enact a 5 provision that the taxpayer would not have to in the first 6 instance, when he originally files, conform to every 7 provision with every "i" dotted and every "t" crossed.

8 That is, he could come back when he has not filled in 9 something correctly, and fill it in correctly. However, it 10 looks like the report language that accompanied the bill 11 tightened up and changed our intention here so that there 12 are taxpayers now who file their State tax returns and find 13 them summarily rejected because the taxpayer did not 14 completely fill out every portion of the return.

15 So, I would suggest an amendment which provides a rule 16 of reasonableness, as is the case with all other returns, 17 so that if the State tax filer elects the special use under, 18 I guess, it is Section 2032(a), he is entitled to the 19 principle of reasonableness just like very other taxpayer.

20 Senator Grassley. I would like to have any comments 21 that the staff might have on the provision that I just brought 22 up because I would also like to add that I have had brought 23 to my attention in my State the same issue that Senator 24 Baucus has brought up as well.

25 The Chairman. Comments on these two issues?

1 Mr. Brockway?

2 Mr. Brockway. Mr. Chairman, on Senator Grassley's 3 proposal, it was in 1982 as the Senator said that the 4 recapture rule for special use valuation was changed. It 5 was reduced from 15 years to 10 years, if the inheritors of 6 the property took the property out of agricultural use and 7 sold the property.

8 That was simply done on a prospective basis for 9 transfers after the 1982 change, and we have not done any 10 revenue estimate analysis on that yet; but we will look into 11 that.

12 Senator Grassley. Yes, that is fine; but maybe you 13 missed the point I was making. I would not propose that 14 there would be any-- In other words, any tax that would be 15 owed by that estate that had a 15-year proposition connected 16 with it for holding it would still be paid.

17 I am just suggesting that they would only have to hold 18 it 10 years instead of the 15 years. Whatever tax that 19 estate would have to pay, I would want that still to be paid 20 so that the Federal Government would not lose one penny.

21 Mr. Brockway. Right. I think to the extent that there 22 would be a revenue impact at all, it would be the situation 23 where someone at a pre-1982 transfer found that, for 24 whatever reason, transferred the property between the years 25 10 and 15 under present law, they would be required to pay

1 tax at the nonspecial use rates, whereas under this 2 amendment, it would treat them in the same way as taxpayers 3 who were decedents after 1982.

4 I don't know whether the issue itself, of looking at 5 earlier States, was looked at in 1982.

6 Senator Grassley. Understand that, under my proposition 7 still, everybody would still have to hold their land for at 8 least 10 years.

9 Mr. Brockway. That is correct.

10 Senator Grassley. All right.

11 The Chairman. Further comments?

12 (No response)

13 The Chairman. If not, let's move on to Pensions, 14 Deferred Compensation and Employee Benefits and Employee 15 Stock Options. And that starts on page --

17 The Chairman. Page 124. In the section on Deferred
18 Compensation and Pensions, in drafting the chairman's bill, 19 I very much attempted to move toward the direction of 20 requiring employers to tilt toward wage earning employees;
21 or put it the other way around, I found many, many instances 22 where the Pension and Deferred Compensation Law tilted 23 toward higher income employees.

24 Whether you would say that would be at the expense of 25 your wage employees or not, I don't know if that is a fair

1 way to phrase this; but you had plans set up in such a way 2 that it was much easier for highly compensated employees to 3 take advantage of them than lower compensated employees.

4 And so, in this entire area, you will see a consistent 5 thread of attempting to either move toward nondiscrimination 6 or at least financially to make it very difficult to have 7 plans that tilted toward just the highly compensated or 8 principally toward the highly compensated without covering 9 others.

10 I must confess I stole generously from Senator Heinz and 11 Senator Chafee in this area in the work that they had done, 12 and I think they will see a good many of their nuggets 13 spread throughout the chairman's proposal.

14 Senator Grassley. It will sound better tomorrow.

15 The Chairman. Well, I will give them full credit.
16 They did good work, and there is a fair portion, whether it 17 was stolen, borrowed, or begged, of their work in this 18 section.

19 So, let's start through it. Mr. Weiss? Mr. Colvin?

20 Mr. Colvin. On page 124, the first issue is Spousal 21 IRAs, and this is a minor provision that corrects a quirk
22 under which spousal IRAs are not available if the spouse 23 earns between $1.00 and $250.00.

24 On Item B, the issue is an increase in the IRA 25 withdrawal additional income tax from 10 percent to 15

1 percent, and also the provision of an exception if the 2 withdrawal is for an annuity.

3 Senator Danforth. Is that it for IRAs, John?

4 Mr. Colvin. That is it for page 124. The relationship 5 between an IRA and a 401(k) comes up on a later page. On 6 page 125 --

7 Senator Danforth. May I ask before you move from page 8 124, on IRAs, a lot of advertising before the April 15th 9 deadline--you see it on billboards even--urging people to 10 borrow in order to put money into IRAs.

11 I would like to ask Mr. Mentz: Is that consistent with 12 the purpose of IRAs? Is what we are intending to do to 13 encourage people to borrow in order to save?

14 And if you were advising a client, what advice would a 15 client get from a lawyer on the benefits from borrowing in 16 order to create IRAs?

17 Mr. Mentz. Well, I guess the advice to a client would 18 be that an IRA is sort of like chicken soup--it can't hurt 19 you. It is a no-lose proposition.

20 So, you might as well put your $2,000 into an IRA; and 21 if you need to borrow to do it, I would be worried about my 22 client being able to pay my fee if he had to borrow $2,000
23 to put into an IRA.

24 But as a practical matter, sure, borrowing under current 25 law, there is nothing wrong with it; and you certainly would

1 advise a client to do it.

2 The chairman has recognized that there is a kind of 3 --at least in perception and more than that perhaps--a problem 4 in borrowing to fund an IRA. It is hard to see how that 5 really enhances a true saving.

6 And under the chairman's proposal dealing with interest 7 --interest incurred on a loan to fund an IRA--is not 8 deductible. Treasury would support that position.

9 The Chairman. One of the things that was in the back 10 of my mind, Senator Danforth, in crafting these proposals 11 was the demographics that we faced.

12 And anything that would encourage, and especially 13 employers, to provide pensions for lower and middle income 14 employees where they are now not doing it or where they are 15 offsetting them with Social Security or where they were 16 relatively minimal, the proposal tilts toward encouraging 17 those kinds of retirement plans.

18 It tilts toward making it a little bit more difficult, 19 or at least a little bit more penalized, to withdraw for 20 purposes other than for retirement where it was initially 21 set up for retirement, although there that parallels, at 22 least in philosophy, the Administration's idea also.

23 Senator Danforth. Can I ask a question about the 24 borrowing? Now, under present law, you deduct your interest 25 and you also deduct what you put into your IRA; and there is 1 no increase in savings, and it is a total wash.

2 But even if interest that is paid on loans in order to 3 fund IRAs is not deductible, still that doesn't get at the 4 underlying problem. I mean, what we have done is to provide 5 a deduction of up to $2,250 for somebody who, in essence, 6 doesn't do anything at all--just shifts money from borrowing 7 to savings.

8 The whole point of an IRA, as I understand it, is to 9 increase savings, not to have a wash.

10 Am I correct on that, Mr. Mentz? Is it sort of just a 11 gimmick?

12 Mr. Mentz. Well, I wouldn't call it a gimmick, Senator.
13 I think that, while in a given case it may be that an IRA 14 represents a transfer from one account to another, I think 15 that in many cases an IRA provides an incentive for an 16 individual to save, to put away that $2,000; and instead of 17 spending it, particularly at this time of year when they are 18 getting ready to file their tax returns, and you can still 19 put it away before April 15th, I think people are doing it.

20 Senator Danforth. Sure, it does, and that is the 21 intention of it; but what I am saying is if somebody borrows 22 in order to fund an IRA, that doesn't accomplish the objective 23 of the Congress in creating such a thing, does it?

24 Mr. Mentz. You might have a short-term borrowing when 25 it is paid off next month out of next month's salary and you

1 effectuate the intent; but I think your point is basically 2 right.

3 And I think the chairman meets it with his treatment of 4 interest on funds borrowed to --

5 Senator Danforth. I don't understand how he meets it.
6 I mean, he meets it by preventing a double form of deduction.
7 He meets it by preventing a deduction of interest and a 8 deduction of what was put into the IRA.

9 But still, you get to deduct what you put into the IRA 10 even though you really haven't saved any money at all.

11 The Chairman. Are you questioning the original concept 12 of the IRAs at all?

13 Senator Danforth. No, not at all. I think that we 14 should actively encourage savings, and I am all for it; but 15 what I am saying is that is it a bizarre situation if we 16 are offering a deduction to people who don't increase their 17 net savings. They simply borrow in order to -- 18 The Chairman. Well, that has been a point that has been 19 raised all along on the IRAs and other savings devices, 20 including the fabled All Savers Certificates.

21 We were going to encourage people to save money that 22 somehow they weren't otherwise saving; and in many of our 23 experiences, it has been that they are shifting their savings 24 from one form of savings to another.

25 You certainly can't look at the savings in the United

1 States, after all of the incentives we have put in in the 2 last few years, and say, gee, they have gone up. They have 3 gone down unfortunately.

4 I think that is a separate issue, however, from the 5 particular IRA issue here. Whether or not we adopt my 6 proposal or the House's or the President's, I don't think 7 it faces the issue of whether or not this incentive 8 discourages, encourages, or is neutral about total net 9 savings.

10 That may be an issue in this bill, if we want to bring 11 it up, or for another bill; but I don't think any of the 12 proposals address themselves to that subject --

13 Senator Danforth. I guess what I am saying is that 14 there could be something that could be put in this bill that 15 would get to the, what I would suggest, is an abuse.

16 I mean, if this is a tax reform bill, is there something 17 that we can put into the bill which would say--maybe it is 18 just impossible to draft such a thing--but which would say 19 that what we don't want people to do is to just shift money 20 from borrowing to savings, where there is no net change.

21 Senator Chafee. Mr. Chairman, we raised this with you, 22 and I thought we had the specific provision covered; that 23 you would be against the law to borrow --

24 The Chairman. To borrow. That is correct.

25 Senator Chafee. For an IRA. And it is my understanding

1 that that is covered.

2 The Chairman. I think, though, that Jack may be driving 3 for even more than that. I am not sure.

4 Senator Chafee. I thought it was similar to the 5 limitation on borrowing for speculating.

6 The Chairman. It is. But I am curious if this is what 7 Jack is getting at.

8 You earn money. Prior to the IRA, you might have put 9 it in your savings account. You didn't borrow it; you might 10 have put it in your savings account, upon which you would 11 then pay taxes on the interest you received.

12 Now, instead of putting it in your savings account, you 13 may put it in an IRA; and you don't pay taxes on the interest 14 while it mounts up. And you get to deduct it.

15 And I am not sure if Senator Danforth is saying that 16 somehow that ought to be prohibited because, in essence, it 17 is a shift of savings, and it is the same $2,000.

18 I don't know if that is what you are driving at.

19 Senator Danforth. No, here is what I am saying.

20 Coming in to National Airport this past weekend, I 21 walked by a little area--you know, a shelter--where people 22 stand out of the rain. And there was a poster up in the 23 shelter, and the poster was advertising a bank, and it said:
24 Borrow in order to invest in your IRA.

25 In other words, what the bank was doing was advertising

1 a program which would ask people to come into the bank, 2 borrow money from the bank, and then take that borrowed 3 money and put it in the IRA in order to get the deduction
4 for putting it in the IRA.

5 And if all we do is to say, well, that the interest on 6 the borrowed money is not deductible, you really haven't 7 solved the problem because, in effect, what you are doing
8 is saying to somebody: We are going to give you a $2,250
9 deduction from your Federal income taxes for doing nothing 10 at all.

11 You are just going to the bank and you are saying:
12 Please lend me some money so I can put it into a certain 13 kind of savings account and get a deduction.

14 The Chairman. We are saying that when you borrow the 15 money, you at least cannot take the payment on that as a 16 deduction in addition to the IRA deduction.

17 Senator Danforth. I know, but that doesn't solve the 18 problem. That is to say, that instead of getting a total 19 deduction of maybe $2,500, maybe all you get is a deduction 20 of $2,250.

21 The Chairman. Senator Pryor?

22 Senator Pryor. Mr. Chairman, I think about 60 or 70
23 percent of all the mail that I am getting right now on tax 24 reform relates to this area that we are just about to get 25 into.

1 I would like to, first, ask this question: Is the 2 reason for changing the pension area of the 401(k) and IRAs 3 to get more revenues or to straighten out a problem or an 4 abuse?

5 The Chairman. David, let me answer that if I can. As 6 far as I am concerned, in the way that I drafted it, it 7 does produce revenue. But I was more concerned with 8 fairness.

9 Take the 401(k)'s for example. $30,000 current 10 limitation. You go around and ask a company that has got a 11 fair number of employees--a broad section of employees--what 12 percent of their employees' contributions fall above the 13 $7,000 limit. And if you get any employer that has got 14 200 employees or more with fairly broad participation, if 15 you get an answer of more than one or two percent, I will 16 be surprised.

17 If what we are trying to do is to encourage savings for 18 the broad mass of middle income Jane's and Joe's in this 19 world, you don't need a $30,000 limitation; and the $30,000 20 limitation was being taken advantage of by small, closely 21 held corporations allowing partners or shareholders of some 22 degree of wealth to set aside a large sheltered income.

23 And I don't think that is fair, nor is it needed, with 24 this one exception; and I don't know how you come out on this 25 one. A number of employers who, when they would be frank and 1 honest with me, say, well, we have got it in our company;

2 it is very popular. We could never get rid of it; 95, 96, 3 97, or 98 percent of our employees fall below the $7,000, 4 but had we not been able to have the $30,000 deduction, we 5 never would have set it up because we really set it up for 6 ourselves, and we had to extend it to the rest.

7 Senator Pryor. What are we talking about, Mr. Chairman, 8 if I might ask the officials about the revenues that we 9 are going to gain by making this change? I know it is too 10 early to get to 403(b), and that will come probably later; 11 but I would like to know.

12 Maybe they could give just the 401(k) versus the IRA 13 changes. What revenue changes are we talking about?

14 The Chairman. What page is that on in your charts?
15 I am looking for it now.

16 Mr. Colvin. Page 10 on the revenue chart.

17 The Chairman. Thank you.

18 Mr. Colvin. Senator Pryor, this may be a partial answer 19 to your question. The House bill raised $4.7 billion from 20 Section 401(k) plans, and the chairman's proposal loses 21 $.4 billion.

22 The Chairman. And the specific reason it loses the 23 bulk of it is that we backloaded, rather than frontloaded, 24 the IRAs; and that is 90 percent of the difference in the 25 revenue.

1           Otherwise, if you frontloaded it, you would put money
2           into an IRA and you couldn't have any 401(k) at all, and I 3           didn't see that that was doing much for the middle income 4           employee.

5           Senator Matsunaga. Mr. Chairman?

6           The Chairman. Senator Matsunaga?

7           Senator Matsunaga. This may be the appropriate time
8           since Senator Pryor raised an issue, but at the appropriate 9           time as we have been advised by the chairman to let him know, 10          I will offer an amendment to the Pension section of this 11          bill which, in large measure, will retain present law, 12          which will retain present rules relative to basic pension 13          laws.

14          And I have distributed a one-page description of my 15          amendment, and I am doing this, Mr. Chairman, because I 16          just returned from Hawaii and I have been talking to 17          businessmen who have been providing retirement plans on 18          a voluntary basis.

19          And because we have been changing the laws so often--we 20          changed TEFRA in 1982, and then we changed it twice in 1984
21          under what we call DEFRA and RAR--and since 1982, one law 22          firm alone advising employers told me that more than 450 23          of his clients have terminated plans because they say they 24          can't stand the uncertainty of the law.

25          Every time they lay out a plan, pay attorneys' fees to 1 lay it out, then they have to change it. They have to pay 2 attorneys' fees again, lay out new plans.

3 So, rather than paying the attorneys' fees and going 4 through all that expense and going through periods of 5 uncertainty, they said, well, let's terminate the employee 6 pension plans, which means that the employees are suffering 7 because of the termination of plans to which employers make 8 contributions.

9 And so, I will not go into detail of what my proposal 10 will be, but in general, I have submitted a one-page 11 description.

12 Senator Pryor. If I might ask, Senator Matsunaga, does 13 it also relate to the 403(d) changes that we are looking at?

14 Senator Matsunaga. If we change the present law.

15 Senator Pryor. All right. I may want to address that-- 16 The Chairman. Let me interrupt just a second while 17 we have a quorum.

18 Senator Heinz?

19 Senator Heinz. Mr. Chairman, I anticipate that today
20 you will discuss a little more of the Pensions and Deferred 21 Compensation sections than we have discussed thus far.

22 Senator Matsunaga has indicated that he will have an 23 amendment that in large part--and I reviewed his outline of 24 it--will return us in many instances to current law.

25 I want to commend the chairman for having borrowed or

1 stolen, or whatever he did, what John Chafee and/or I have 2 done over the last several years.

3 And in general, I think your proposal has much to 4 recommend it. There are some areas where I would like to 5 seek some modification of some of the things in your 6 proposal, Mr. Chairman, and will be at the appropriate time 7 offering either one amendment or a series of amendments to 8 make those modifications.

9 But without going into those in detail--and I will be 10 sending around shortly a list of what those are--I want to 11 just say to all my colleagues that there is a real issue.
12 Senator Matsunaga, in fact, has put his finger on a very 13 important one which is employer uncertainty about what 14 happens in this pension and deferred benefits area generally.

15 And one of the reasons there is uncertainty is that 16 every time Congress convenes, we do something that gives 17 them great reason to be uncertain about the future because 18 we, the Finance Committee and the Ways and Means Committee, 19 change the laws.

20 And so, their uncertainty is based on certainty, that is, 21 that we are always doing something to them.

22 What I think the chairman's goals are, and certainly 23 mine in the legislation that I have introduced, is to try 24 and introduce a number of elements of certainty so that the 25 Congress doesn't keep coming back, again and again, trying

1 to raise a little revenue by fiddling with some of the limits
2 that affect the defined benefit or the defined contribution 3 plans or other changes that add a few dollars to pay for 4 some new form of tax reform or increase some revenues, as 5 we did in 1984 and 1982.

6 It seems to me that, in addition to setting forth a 7 kind of a framework for pension policy where we indicate 8 clearly that it is our national policy to encourage savings 9 for retirement income purposes as a first priority; and if 10 it were up to me, to encourage savings for other purposes 11 as a secondary and important priority.

12 Then, the next thing we might logically seek to do, 13 having made those distinctions, is to structure our pension 14 laws in a way that safeguards them from attack.

15 One of the problems that Senator Packwood mentioned a 16 moment ago is that plans can have top-heavy benefits. Also, 17 our pension system as a whole is nothing to write home and 18 be proud about.

19 Of all the people working--the 100 million people working 20 today--only about half of them worked for an employer that 21 has any pension plan at all. And of that half, only one-half 22 or about 25 percent of all the workers, therefore, now working 23 can expect to receive a benefit from that pension plan.

24 Typically, and now I am talking about the 50 percent 25 that aren't in jobs where there are no pension plans; what

1 that means is that this very significant tax expenditure--it 2 added up to about $44 billion in tax expenditures last year-- 3 isn't performing quite as broadly and well as I think we 4 would all like it to.

5 I think we would all like to see more people benefit 6 from the pension plan system that we have over the years 7 evolved. And yet, statistically, we know that unless we 8 make some changes in it, the benefits that it provides are 9 going to be rather narrowly targetted to a minority of the 10 work force, and secondly, that there is the risk that a 11 substantial amount of the $44 billion today in tax 12 expenditures--I guess, 1984--could in fact go to relatively 13 well-off people.

14 Now, there is nothing inherently wrong with pension 15 plans doing better for more upper income people than somewhat 16 lower income people because Social Security does somewhat 17 better for lower income people than upper income people.

18 And if the goal of our pension policy is to give 19 everybody a pretty decent replacement rate of their 20 pre-retirement income, then pension plans are necessarily 21 going to do better by upper income people as opposed to 22 low income people.

23 But I would hope, Mr. Chairman, as we go through the 24 pension plan section, that we understand that we have an 25 opportunity--indeed, I think we have an obligation--to try

1 and make sure that in whatever we do we do what we can to 2 improve coverage for people. Coverage is low. That we 3 minimize the kinds of integration out of any benefits at 4 all that occur in some pension plans; that we give incentives 5 for retention of savings nominally set aside for retirement 6 income purposes to, in fact, have strong incentives to be 7 set aside for retirement income purposes and not some other 8 more immediately attractive purpose.

9 And that we do all of this in a way where, having set 10 forth a national policy that makes some sense, that has some 11 rationale to it, the Congress will therefore keep its hands 12 off of this area because we have done something logical and 13 rational and far-sighted and comprehensive and that Congress 14 will go away and leave pensions alone for the next 10 or 15 15 or 20 years.

16 That is probably asking for too much, but that would be 17 my goal, if we could possibly achieve it. I think it will 18 be related to how rational and good and thoughtful and 19 comprehensive a job we do here.

20 If we stick with current law or something like it, there 21 is no doubt in my mind that we will be back at pensions 22 again and again and again. And the very goal of the Senator 23 from Hawaii, which I strongly support, which is 24 predictability, will in fact be the one we don't achieve, 25 even though he and I both seek to achieve it.

1 Senator Matsunaga. If the Senator will yield; I
2 appreciate the Senator's support --

3 Senator Heinz. I didn't say I was going to support 4 his amendment.

5 Senator Matsunaga. Oh. At least the support in 6 principle and perhaps the goal --

7 Senator Heinz. Is agreed upon.

8 Senator Matsunaga. Actually, in the last five years, 9 as the Senator may know, terminations of plans have increased 10 by 300 percent, and the principal reason given by employers 11 for such terminations is that they have got inadequate time 12 and attention to consider the full ramifications of the 13 changes that have been made, some of which of course surface 14 in the chairman's proposal; and the expense of the plan 15 amendment, legal expense.

16 And this is particularly burdensome for small businesses.
17 And of course, Hawaii is primarily small businesses, and 18 they have come to me in droves saying that they are being 19 forced to terminate their plans if we insist on changes.

20 Now, the House bill, Mr. Chairman, under coverage, 21 which Senator Heinz pointed out, should be further studied.
22 The House bill provides for further study, whereas in your 23 proposal, Mr. Chairman, you imposed stricter rules than 24 perhaps --

25 The Chairman. Well, in one section only.

1 Senator Matsunaga. In coverage.

2 The Chairman. Yes. In fairness, and I do appreciate 3 the fact that several days ago you gave the staff the 4 amendments that you were talking about --

5 Senator Matsunaga. Right.

6 The Chairman. But I think there is a difference in 7 philosophy. You would like to keep current law in most 8 areas. I find the current law unfair to middle income 9 employees and to lower income employees.

10 Senator Matsunaga. To retain present law, Mr. Chairman, 11 primarily for the purpose of letting business adjust. If 12 we are going to make any changes, we ought to project into 13 the future 5 to 10 years so that they can lay out their 14 plans in accordance with what the chairman deems to be a 15 fairer or an improvement in the law.

16 The Chairman. Senator Moynihan?

17 Senator Moynihan. Mr. Chairman, I certainly have heard 18 the same kinds of propositions as Senator Matsunaga and 19 Senator Heinz have put forth. I think we all have. I am 20 pleased to learn that in Hawaii there are more employers 21 than there are lawyers.

22 But can I ask my routine question this morning? As I 23 look at page 10 under Title XIV, the President's proposal 24 would raise $16 billion, and the House proposal would raise 25 $5 billion, and we lose $400 million, a pattern we have seen

1 all morning.

2 And I wonder if Mr. Mentz can tell us what is the case 3 for raising the revenue as the President proposed it and 4 what he thinks about our proposal to lose revenue.

5 Mr. Mentz. Senator, I would be glad to. It was a 6 question that I did anticipate.

7 Treasury II, as written in May of 1985, provided an 8 $8,000 limit for 401(k). When Treasury II was estimated by 9 the Joint Committee in July, it came up $25 billion short 10 of revenue neutrality.

11 As a result, Treasury had pledged to the chairman of 12 the Ways and Means Committee that we would amend our plan 13 to have it start out revenue neutral.

14 The two significant amendments that brought it down to 15 revenue neutrality were (1) complete elimination of 401(k)
16 and (2) a change in index FIFO inventories.

17 Now, the reason 401(k) was eliminated in part some of 18 the points that have been mentioned already this morning, 19 401(k), since it is voluntary with each individual, you 20 would tend naturally to get a discriminatory pattern. You 21 will tend naturally to have the higher income people be in 22 a position to defer, whereas the lower income people not 23 be in a position to do so; and also 401(k) may be regarded 24 as less of a method for retirement saving than a normal 25 defined benefit pension plan where amounts are put away, and 1 it is only at retirement age--55 or 60 or 65-- that an 2 annuity is provided.

3 The Chairman. May I interrupt to ask a question?

4 Mr. Mentz. Sure.

5 The Chairman. The answer to Senator Moynihan's question 6 is that you principally got rid of the 401(k)'s and that is 7 where the big savings in revenue came in?

8 Mr. Mentz. Yes. We got rid of the 401(k)'s in order 9 to make up a good piece of that revenue.

10 Now, I think what the chairman has done is taken the 11 $7,000 401(k) limit and has basically met the tax policy 12 objection to existing 401(k), that is, as you explained, 13 it tends to benefit very much the higher income people, 14 but he has not completely repealed 401(k).

15 And frankly, I think that there really is very little 16 if any sentiment for complete repeal. I think the 17 explanation of the President's proposal is more in the 18 historical context that I --

19 Senator Moynihan. Was it revenue driven?

20 Mr. Mentz. Totally.

21 Senator Moynihan. Then, how come we end up losing?

22 The Chairman. Again, the difference between the House 23 and my provision is that we backloaded the IRA, whereas the 24 House frontloaded it. And in essence, you could not have 25 had an IRA and a 401(k), and that costs about $3.5 billion

1 to allow you to have a combination of $7,000 IRA and 401(k) 2 total.

3 Mr. Colvin. Senator Moynihan, one additional area 4 where the chairman's proposal loses revenue compared to the 5 House bill is it extends 401(k) plans to State and local 6 governments.

7 That was terminated under the House bill.

8 Senator Moynihan. Thank you.

9 Senator Bradley. Mr. Chairman?

10 The Chairman. Senator Bradley?

11 Senator Bradley. If I could go back to the IRAs where 12 you have minus 3.6. Just for the record, what did IRAs cost 13 last year without the additional benefit?

14 Mr. Mentz. I think, Senator, that minus 3.6 would have 15 extended the spousal contribution.

16 Senator Bradley. Yes, I understand. I just want to 17 know what does the current IRA provision cost the Government?

18 Mr. Brockway. In fiscal year 1987, our estimate was 19 that the IRA provision resulted in a revenue loss of $15.9 20 billion.

21 Senator Bradley. $15.9 billion. Now, when we passed 22 the IRA in 1981, what was the estimate? Do we know?

23 Mr. Brockway. It was significantly less than that.

24 Senator Bradley. But, I mean, by a wide margin, wasn't 25 it? I mean, wasn't it about--wasn't the estimate about $3

1 to $4 billion, it was going to be?

2 Mr. Brockway. I don't recall the exact figures, but I 3 think you are right.

4 Senator Bradley. We were off in our ability to estimate 5 how much IRAs would cost by about $12 billion. So, now in 6 this proposal, we are suggesting essentially, and the 7 President has suggested as well, to double the IRA. Is 8 that not correct? Give a spousal IRA?

9 The Chairman. That may or may not double it. It 10 presumes that everybody who can afford a $2,000 IRA would 11 buy another $2,000 IRA for a nonworking spouse. And I guess 12 that would double it, if everybody did it.

13 Senator Bradley. I am not suggesting that we have $30 14 billion in IRAs now, by this change, but I am suggesting 15 that it might be a little higher than $3.6 billion.

16 In other words, how did you arrive at $3.6 billion?

17 Mr. Brockway. We essentially used data on the number 18 of one-earner couples that benefit from this provision. I 19 think it is worth pointing out that many couples--two-earner 20 couples essentially--would not be affected by this provision.

21 This is just one-earner couples, and it is only those 22 where the full $2,250 that is allowed under present law is 23 already being utilized.

24 Senator Bradley. Right.

25 Mr. Brockway. So, we tabulated data on that and tried

1 to make an estimate.

2 Senator Bradley. Do you also have what income level 3 that falls in?

4 Mr. Brockway. We don't have a specific estimate of the 5 income level that this particular provision would be used 6 by.

7 Senator Bradley. Because it is my guess that the income 8 level that would be able to use the spousal IRA would be an 9 upper middle to higher income level person, consistent with 10 what Mr. Mentz has said about IRAs generally.

11 And I think that we might want to consider that fact 12 as well as the revenue loss which might be considerably
13 different. And I just wanted to raise that for the chairman's 14 attention and suggest that maybe, when we come back to this 15 issue, that might be something that I would want to talk 16 about.

17 The Chairman. Senator Boren?

18 Senator Boren. Mr. Chairman, I wondered on the 401(k) 19 about the ceiling question, the $30,000 and the $7,000. What 20 is the revenue gain that occurs by lowering that cap?

21 Mr. Brockway. We think that about $1.7 billion is 22 raised by taking the $30,000 down to the $7,000 level.

23 Senator Boren. Is that roughly calibrated? In other 24 words, if you went to $17,000 or whatever, would that still 25 raise about half the revenue?

1 Mr. Brockway. No. What happens is that there are only 2 a few people, a relatively few people, affected by even a 3 $7,000 cap; and once you raise it even $1,000 or $2,000, 4 virtually all the effect of the proposal goes away because 5 there are just not that many people who are making more 6 than $7,000 or $8,000 or $9,000.

7 Senator Boren. Have you done any kind of study on-- 8 I am told that so many of the new companies, the start-up 9 companies, are considering whether or not to start these 10 plans--the entrepreneur involved or the executive involved.
11 Many of them might just decide not to have plans for the 12 rest of their employees if they didn't have a personal 13 incentive to create them themselves.

14 The Chairman. I talked about that earlier. I can 15 give you some personal experience on that because I have 16 asked 15 or 20 companies who have 401(k)'s with a rather 17 broad participation, first, what was their average 18 contribution. 98 percent are less than $7,000.

19 Senator Boren. Right.

20 The Chairman. Randy Weiss is right about how many 21 are contributing above that; but several of the employers, 22 very frankly, said they never would have put it in but for 23 the $30,000, and they were putting it in for themselves.

24 And if, by chance, their employees took advantage of 25 it, why so much the better for the employees; but you know,

1 that is like saying: Why should we have any taxation on 2 people who make over $500,000 a year? There aren't enough 3 of them to make any difference in terms of income.

4 So, at some stage, I don't think the retirement policy
5 of the Federal Government ought to be to disproportionately 6 encourage the very privileged to set aside money for 7 retirement in the hopes that some of the middle income 8 taxpayers might get covered.

9 Senator Boren. Well, the only thing I would say about 10 that is that we have to be somewhat cautious because 11 especially when you have newer and smaller--probably the 12 smaller the operation, the more important it is in terms of 13 the attitude--but if indeed 98 percent of the people 14 benefitting from 401(k)'s fall below the ceiling, there is 15 some significant benefit to the creation of it for lots and 16 lots of people.

17 I think to sort of turn the argument around a little 18 bit, I think we have to consider that point --

19 Senator Durenberger. Before you leave that point, 20 would you yield for just a short question on the point you 21 are raising and that the chairman responded to?

22 In addition to the more well-paid executives, it has 23 been my experience--and maybe somebody can confirm or deny 24 this--that there is another group of employees who utilize 25 401(k)'s above $6,000 or $7,000 or $8,000; and that is people

1 who work very hard, say, the first 20 years of their existence 2 to raise a family, educate their kids, they are getting 3 their kids through college, and so forth.

4 They have now reached about 50 years of age. Their 5 salary or their income is about as high as it is going to 6 get, with some incremental increases; but their costs are 7 starting to go down again.

8 So, at that point, it becomes possible for them to do 9 what they weren't able to do when all of their income was 10 going into current expenses--household expenses--and that is 11 to start saving via 401(k).

12 Now, what does experience tell us about that kind of 13 a reality?

14 Senator Moynihan. Mr. Chairman, may I offer the 15 thought that experience tell us that they never leave home.

16 (Laughter)

1 Senator Durenberger. Well, that has to do with the 2 refrigerator.

3 (Laughter)

4 Senator Durenberger. But is there an answer to that?
5 The Chairman is characterizing the 7000 and over as being the 6 wealthier employees, and I am suggesting that there is a whole 7 other group of employees that the size of their income has 8 nothing to do with it, it is the size of their expense 9 relative to their age.

10 Mr. Colvin. Senator Durenberger, we have seen informa-11 tion that savings rates increase with age, as you point out; 12 but I believe that a majority of people even in those higher 13 savings rates would not reach the 7000 limit.

14 The Chairman. I wonder if we might march through this 15 section, because we have about 50 pages to go in the entire 16 section.

17 David?

18 Senator Boren. I just wanted to mention the two elements 19 that I may offer an amendment on later. They deal with the 20 material on pages 143 and 152, with early withdrawal and also 21 company withdrawal from qualified pension plans.

22 I am very concerned.

23 The Chairman. Was your latter one the reversions? Did 24 you say company withdrawal from pensions?

25 Senator Boren. The company withdrawal, and also the 1 early-out before age 59 and a half.

2 Like everone else, I want to make sure that we preserve 3 the security of these funds, that we don't have them
4 endangered. But where we have over-funding of plans -- 5 we have some situations that have resulted from the great 6 stress that our economy is going through in our region right 7 now.

8 One of our largest corporate citizens, for example, had 9 no choice but to sell. He's going to have to do some of this 10 while still keeping its plan well above the minimums required 11 by law and by prudence. And there are also some people that 12 are getting retired that don't want to retire; they are 13 being forced to terminate early before age 59 and a half. We 14 have had massive layoffs in the energy industries and in 15 corporations in that area that are totally non-voluntary, and 16 many of these people are now unemployed and are going to have 17 a tough time finding other jobs.

18 So I want us to at least think about not penalizing some 19 of those people that are now being forced by economic 20 developments.

21 The Chairman. If you could, I would appreciate it, and 22 most of the members have been very good so far about letting 23 me know in writing some of the things they are thinking of.
24 The reason for that is going back to the question Max Baucus 25 asked earlier about the schedules, now that we are going to be

1 going morning and afternoon, and when are we going to be doing
2 such and such a thing. That depends upon how many amendments 3 there are, and it depends upon how many are going to be 4 adopted.

5 I have a rough idea, as I see them ahead of time. You 6 can get a pretty good sense as to which ones are going to take 7 time and which ones aren't. But we will be, with the 8 exception of the day set aside for the Canadian-American 9 pre-trade negotiations, and one day for hearings on the 10 excises, going Monday through Friday, mornings and after-11 noons, with the possibility of votes on issues on all 12 occasions with the rule-of-thumb exception of maybe Friday 13 afternoons and Monday mornings.

14 Senator Boren. Well, I will probably have amendments 15 to those two sections, Mr. Chairman.

16 The Chairman. Senator Danforth, then Senator Baucus, 17 then Senator Matsunaga.

18 Senator Danforth. Mr. Chairman, I may have an amendment 19 disallowing deductions for IRAs in the case of funding IRAs 20 from borrowed money.

21 The Chairman. I thought that was in the bill.

22 Senator Danforth. No.

23 Mr. Brockway; Mr. Chairman, your proposal has a 24 provision to disallow the interest deduction on borrowed funds.

25 The Chairman. Oh, you are going to disallow the 1 borrowing altogether?

2 Senator Danforth. Disallow the IRA deduction in the case
3 of just shifting money from borrowing to savings.

4 The Chairman. All right.

5 Senator Baucus?

6 Senator Baucus. Mr. Chairman, I would like to pass 7 notice that I have some amendments, too. One is going to be 8 to change the Social Security maximum wage base -- as used, 9 the Social Security maximum wage base -- a percent of that 10 with a limit, the upper limit, for the 401(k)s. It seems to 11 me it makes good sense if we are going to index the maximum 12 Social Security wage base for Social Security, we should also 13 do the same thing for 401(k)s, just have some concomity in 14 policy here.

15 My thought is that that upper limit, therefore, would be 16 either 25 percent of the base, or 20 percent of the base.
17 If it is 25 percent, I think it comes out to about, instead 18 of $7000, I guess $10,000.

19 But anyway, I want to set the principle of concomity and 20 parallelism between the two. So, I will be offering that.

21 The Chairman. Again is a request: If you could just 22 have your staff give it to our staff, even in its idea form -- 23 it doesn't have to be technically drafted -- so we have a 24 rough idea of what you are aiming at.

25 Senator Baucus. And in addition, I would allow an

1 employee to buy an ESOP, $2500, above and in addition to the 2 wage limit for 401(k)s, so long as the stock is held for a 3 requisite period of time, in my case at least three years.

4 What I am trying to do is encourage more employee
5 participation in companies. That's why I think the ESOP 6 limit, the contribution, should be at a reasonable level, 7 say $2500, and in addition to the 401(k) limit.

8 Also, slightly changing the non-discrimination rules, 9 basically, Mr. Chairman, adopting your approach, but 10 liberalizing it just slightly from your approach. It seems 11 to me that there is not discrimination against the middle-12 income employees -- that is, it seems to me that those 13 middle-income employees, those middle-income wage earners, 14 have an opportunity to join or not join many plans depending 15 on how they marshall their assets. But it further seems to 16 me that those non-discrimination rules should not be 17 tightened up quite as tight as they would be under your 18 approach.

19 Finally, if I might add, I want to help the availability 20 of 401(k) programs to smaller business; that is, 401(k) master 21 or prototype plan I think should be more readily available to 22 smaller concerns.

23 As it is now, it is very, very difficult and it is very 24 expensive for a company to file a 401(k) plan, with high 25 attorneys' fees, and I am trying to get rid of those attorneys'

1 fees, frankly, in the filing requirements so that smaller-2 sized businesses can more readily --

3 The Chairman. I have no philosophical objection to the 4 last, although some of the biggest abuses I have seen of this 5 are in small firms of highly-compensated people that take 6 full advantage of the $30,000 deduction each. And I don't 7 think that is what we intended for the small businesses.

8 Senator Baucus. Mr. Chairman, that is true, but I think 9 the non-discrimination rules could take care of that. I just 10 don't think that smaller firms should be impeded of filing a 11 plan just because of the complexity of the legal requirements.

12 The Chairman. Let me announce, if I can, for those who 13 are now here, what I hope we will be able to do the rest of 14 the week in terms of both going through the bill and taking 15 some action on amendments.

16 Tomorrow I would like to make some final decisions on 17 both energy and ACRS, if we can. Tomorrow afternoon, back to 18 pensions again, going through this, although we will continue 19 to go through it for another 45 minutes or an hour today.

20 On Thursday morning, I would like to be able to make 21 some decisions on the accounting provisions that we have 22 already gone over. And on Thursday afternoon go to the 23 foreign tax provisions, for preliminary discussion, and the 24 same next Monday morning, preliminary discussions. I have said 25 Friday will be the Canadian free-trade hearing.

1 Senator Moynihan. Mr. Chairman, the discussions also 2 on Monday morning?

3 The Chairman. Yes.

4 And then, if we move along that fast, going on to bonds, 5 preliminary discussion, on Monday afternoon. And preliminary 6 discussion on individual and insurance taxation on Tuesday.

7 Senator Bradley. So, no votes on Monday?

8 The Chairman. I don't plan any votes on Monday right 9 now.

10 Senator Danforth. Mr. Chairman?

11 The Chairman. Yes?

12 Senator Danforth. If members present to you their 13 suggestions or present to the staff their suggestions for 14 amendments, would it be possible for those suggestions to be 15 circulated in advance to the members, so that we could get 16 some idea of what we are going to be voting on in advance?

17 The Chairman. What I would hope is -- we will try to.
18 I would hope all the members would circulate their own 19 amendments to the other members. And I would think that any 20 member who wants his amendments adopted might circulate them 21 beyond just me and get them to the other members.

22 Senator Danforth. It would also be helpful if there is 23 some judgment as to what the revenue effects would be.

24 The Chairman. Our Joint Committee will try on it. I 25 can't guarantee that they will always have it all the time,

1 but they will try on them.

2 But it is up to the member to at least go and ask what 3 the revenue estimates are, just don't throw them out to the 4 wind and assume that some of them fall on the Joint Committee, 5 and that they will pick them up off the street, make estimates 6 on them, and throw them back up in the wind and hope that 7 they arrive someplace else.

8 Senator Matsunaga. Mr. Chairman, in that regard may I 9 ask unanimous consent that the Chairman request of the Joint 10 Committee the revenue estimates on my amendment?

11 The Chairman. They will do the best they can.

12 Senator Matsunaga. The Chairman will so request?

13 The Chairman. I will request it. I cannot by 14 unanimous consent guarantee they can produce it.

15 Senator Matsunaga. But a request will be made. Thank 16 you.

17 The Chairman. Now let us continue on through the 18 section. Out of 50 pages in the last hour we have gotten 19 through a quarter of a page.

20 Mr. Colvin. Mr. Chairman, on page 125, the 401(k)
21 elective deferrals are limited to $7000, and the last dollar 22 offset is used instead of the first dollar offset in the 23 House bill.

24 On page 126, that should also be read with page 127. That 25 relates to the non-discrimination requirements for 401(k)

1 plans and the change made by the Chairman's proposal, on page 2 127, where the average deferral percentage ratios are 3 tightened somewhat from the current law.

4 However, as I said, that should be read in connection 5 with the previous page, where the tighter, higher-compensated 6 employees definition is not used, and so the effect of the 7 Chairman's proposal is to be significantly more relaxed than 8 the rules that would be in the House bill.

9 Page 128, a number of other issues relating to 401(k)
10 plans. A couple of the major ones: the extension of 401(k) 11 plans to state and local employees; another is the limit of 12 hardship withdrawals to elective deferrals. Those are the 13 major points on that page.

14 Senator Heinz. Mr. Chairman, can I just go back one 15 page here? In terms of the non-discrimination requirements 16 on CODAs?

17 John, how would you describe the main differences between 18 the House bill and the Chairman's proposal, with respect to 19 that?

20 Mr. Colvin. The Chairman's proposal does not change the 21 "highly-compensated" definition. It retains the one-third/22 two-thirds from current law.

23 Senator Heinz. And what are the effects, as you see 24 it? Or what policy goals are achieved by doing one and not 25 the other? One set or the other?

1 Mr. Colvin. The effect of the Chairman's proposal 2 compared to current law is to tighten discrimination rules for 3 401(k) plans. It does not go as far as the House bill did.

4 Senator Heinz. And how different do you see the 5 Chairman's proposal being from current law?

6 Mr. Colvin. The impact would vary by the company's 7 payroll situation. But I could give an example:

8 Let's say that today the non-prohibited group -- that is, 9 the bottom two-thirds paid of the work force -- were 10 deferring 3 percent into a 401(k) plan. Under current law, 11 the top one-third could elect to defer 6 percent of their 12 income into the 401(k) plan. So, it's 3 percent versus 6 13 percent.

14 Under the Chairman's proposal, it would be 5 percent.
15 So, under the Chairman's proposal if the bottom-paid two-thirds 16 were electing to defer 3 percent, the top-paid one-third 17 could elect to defer 5 percent. That is somewhat tighter than 18 current law but doesn't go as far as the House bill did, 19 because they tightened the definition of "highly compensated."

20 Senator Heinz. All right. Thank you. Very helpful.

21 The Chairman. Do you want to go on to employee matching 22 contributions, page 129?

23 Mr. Colvin. These provisions are somewhat similar to the 24 average deferral percentage ratios that we just talked about 25 for 401(k) plans.

1 On page 129 and 130, the Chairman's proposal imposes the 2 same kind of average deferral test on employer matching
3 contributions.

4 The Chairman. And these are similar to the President's 5 proposals, and the revenue estimates are about the same on 6 all of them, right?

7 Mr. Colvin. The revenue estimates are not stated 8 separately on page 10, but that is probably correct.

9 The Chairman. You interrupt, Mr. Secretary, as we are 10 going, if you have additional comments.

11 Mr. Mentz. I will.

12 The Chairman. Go ahead, John.

13 Mr. Colvin. On page 131, the subject there are the 14 deferred compensation plans of state and local governments.
15 These are sometimes called "section 457 plans."

16 The principal change made by the Chairman's proposal is 17 to require distributions over the retirement years of the 18 participants. That prevents the possibility of continuing 19 tax sheltering into the retirement years for a state and local 20 employee.

21 On page 132, the top there is the continuation of the 22 item I just mentioned. At the bottom of page 132, it would 23 tax the investment earnings of an annuity policy owned by a 24 corporation or trust -- that is item A. And item B would 25 impose a 15 percent additional income tax on withdrawals from 1 annuities prior to age 59 and a half.

2 Senator Heinz. Mr. Chairman?

3 The Chairman. Senator Heinz?

4 Senator Heinz. Mr. Chairman, let me ask staff on that.

5 Now, as I understand a deferred annuity contract, aren't 6 those contracts purchased with after-tax money, as opposed to 7 before-tax money, like a CODA? I see heads nodding up and 8 down. Is that correct?

9 Mr. Strella. Yes.

10 Senator Heinz. Given the fact that these are in fact, 11 in a sense, not purchased with what we would count as tax 12 expenditures -- these being purchased with after-tax money -- 13 why would we want to subject them to as high a penalty 14 withdrawal tax as we would in the case of 401(k)s and IRAs?

15 Mr. Colvin. The earnings on these annuities accumulate 16 income tax free. So, while there is not a tax incentive going 17 in, there is an element of untaxed income during the period 18 the annuity is held.

19 Senator Heinz. Oh, I understand that. But if you just 20 do the math, clearly somebody who is putting in pre-tax money, 21 and getting the benefit of the inside buildup, is getting the 22 inside buildup not only on the part that would have been taxed 23 but the part -- both parts: the part that would have been 24 taxed and the part that would never be taxed. Whereas, with 25 a deferred annuity contract, the base is lower in a sense,

1 because after-tax money is going in, and you are not getting 2 any inside buildup on contributions that weren't previously 3 taxed, as you do under a CODA.

4 Therefore, it seems logical to me that, since there is 5 less benefit, there should be less of a penalty for early 6 withdrawal.

7 Mr. Brockway. Senator Heinz, the early withdrawal tax 8 would apply only to the earnings in the case of a deferred
9 annuity. So, the penalty would be much less.

10 Senator Heinz. It would only be on the inside buildup, 11 you are saying?

12 Mr. Brockway. Right. It would not apply to the 13 contribution, because, precisely as you stated, it is out of 14 after-tax dollars.

15 Senator Heinz. That is all well and good, but it still 16 does not answer my question about the difference and the 17 source of the buildup.

18 Now, the source of the buildup in this case comes from 19 after-tax money. In the case of the CODA it comes from 20 deferred compensation that is pre-taxed. And it seems to me 21 there is still a legitimate distinction.

22 I hear what you are saying, that it is only on the inside 23 buildup, but, you know, the person who is in the CODA is 24 being subjected to a 15 percent tax on the inside buildup of 25 funds that were pre-taxed funds and not after-tax funds. And

1 it seems to me that you could make a very good case that you 2 shouldn't tax both of those the same. And I am arguing the 3 case as to why you should tax this as highly as you tax the 4 former.

5 Mr. Mentz. Senator, if I may reply, you are quite right 6 that they are not the same. You have identified one aspect 7 of it, but the other is that moneys coming out of a CODA 8 or indeed out of any qualified plan come out of a plan where 9 by law there is a discrimination test and a whole set of 10 statutory rules that are designed to provide at least some 11 benefit for the middle class. That is the basis of the tax 12 subsidy, as you indicated before.

13 A deferred annuity is simply an individual investment.
14 Typically, a deferred annuity would be purchased not by your 15 middle-income fellow but by a higher-income person who wants 16 the deferral, and if he bought a bond or any other kind of an 17 investment he would most likely be forced to take income into 18 account every year.

19 So, I think your point is exactly right, these are not 20 the same as moneys coming out of 401(k) or any other kind of a 21 qualified plan.

22 The reason for the same 15 percent tax is kind of rough 23 justice -- it is not the same in one respect, it is not as 24 good; and in the other respect it is not as bad. But that is 25 really the rationale.

1           Senator Heinz. These people, it seems to me, fit into 2 Dave Durenberger's category that he was talking about a moment 3 ago: they are in a sense people whose employment periods could 4 be average. But, because they are making these arrangements 5 at age 50 -- people at age 50 have averagely higher incomes 6 than people at age 40 or 30 or 20 -- and you are talking about 7 people who have gotten a lot of their expenses, putting their 8 kids through college and so forth, behind them but have not 9 had the opportunity to save, and in effect are attempting to 10 save some retirement income on an after-tax basis from their 11 relatively higher income. I am concerned that we are being 12 a little tough on them.

13           Mr. Mentz. Well, I think that is right; I think they 14 will first put their money into an IRA, a 401(k), any kind of 15 a qualified vehicle that they can find, even an employee 16 contribution that is not matched to a qualified plan, so that 17 the income can accumulate tax free. And then they will go to 18 the deferred annuity.

19           Senator Heinz. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

20           The Chairman. Go ahead, John.

21           Mr. Colvin. The next issue is on page 133, and it 22 concerns tax-sheltered annuities. The principal parts of the 23 Chairman's proposal in this area are the limit of elective 24 deferrals to $7000, which corresponds to the limit of 401(k)s.
25 As compared to the House bill, the Chairman's proposal uses a

1 last-dollar offset instead of a first-dollar offset, relating 2 to IRA contributions. And finally, the Chairman's proposal 3 includes the special catch-up provisions which primarily 4 benefit the situation Senator Durenberger was mentioning 5 earlier with respect to people whose savings increase in their 6 later years.

7 Senator Heinz. Mr. Chairman, on those tax shelter 8 annuities, the 403(d)s, and on the 401(k)s, I would hope that, 9 irrespective of whether we set the limit at $7000, or 10 irrespectively if we modify that or not, tha we would index
11 whatever limit we set to the Social Security wage base, as you 12 have done in other parts of your proposal with respect to the 13 defined benefit or the defined contribution plan limit.

14 It seems to me one way of building instability to 15 whatever changes we make is to build in changes that will 16 automatically take into account, in the limitations, the kind 17 of changes in inflation and the value of those contributions 18 that could be eroded over time, were we not to index them to 19 the Social Security wage base.

20 I will probably have an amendment as part of my package 21 to do that.

22 Mr. Colvin. The next issue on page 134 is the simplified 23 employee pension provision, taken from the legislation
24 introduced by Senators Heinz and Chafee.

25 It is a provision not contained in either the President's

1 proposal or the House bill, and it has a revenue loss of about 2 $200 million over the period.

3 This is a simplified form of employee pension plan which 4 is much like an Individual Retirement Account, coupled with a 5 non-discrimination rule provided in current law, and it 6 would contain the liberalizations described on pages 134 and 7 135. And as I said, that is taken from the RIPA pension
8 bill introduced by Senators Heinz and Chafee.

9 Senator Heinz. Mr. Chairman, on that, I will have 10 probably four minor changes -- not to change the intent but 11 just some perfecting amendments. So that bill, RIPA was 12 written about a year ago. We have gotten a lot of good 13 comments, but we think we could make it even simpler and more 14 workable.

15 The Chairman. Thank you.

16 Mr. Colvin. The next issue is on page 135, and it 17 relates to coverage requirements for pension plans. Under 18 current law, speaking generally, an employer must cover 56 19 percent of the workforce or a fair cross-section of employees, 20 and this proposal raises the 56 percent to 80 percent. That 21 is a variation of the proposal in the Heinz-Chafee legisla-22 tion.

23 Senator Heinz. Let me know before you leave this, 24 because I have a couple of questions I want to ask here.

25 The Chairman. Go ahead, John.

1 Senator Heinz. The goal of the provisions in RIPA 2 under the non-discrimination rules is basically to try and 3 extend coverage to employees who are currently excluded from 4 coverage altogether.

5 I am not interested in forcing uniformity in benefits.
6 As I mentioned earlier, uniformity in benefits, when it comes 7 to pension benefits, doesn't make sense, because of the way
8 Social Security benefits are structured. They are much more 9 generous to the lower-income people, and then tail off, as 10 measured by replacement rates, as you get upscale to the 11 Social Security wage base. And then, of course, they tend to 12 disappear at that point for people with higher incomes.

13 There are some differences in what you have drafted here 14 compared to RIPA, and I just want to be clear on whether the 15 intent of the Chairman's draft is to prevent reasonable 16 disparities between a salaried and hourly plant, or merely to 17 prevent the extreme disparities that were permitted under 18 Revenue Ruling 83-58.

19 Mr. Colvin. It is to prevent only the extreme dispar-20 ities, and that is why the revenue ruling is specifically 21 identified as being reversed. And that revenue ruling is 22 described on page 136 on the spreadsheet.

23 Senator Heinz. I have received some comment that there 24 is some uncertainty about what our goals were, the staff's 25 goals were here, and I think we are going to have to do some

1 clarification, because there has been some misinterpretation
2 of that intent. The intent you described is one I fully 3 support. I think we are going to have to find some ways to 4 make it clear that that, in fact, is the intent, because there 5 is some concern that the language as written doesn't do 6 justice to what you have just described, John.

7 Mr. Colvin. The next separate issue is on page 137, 8 which relates to non-discrimination rules for section 403(b) 9 annuities, tax-sheltered annuities.

10 The Chairman's proposal does not impose non-11 discrimination rules in that area. The House bill had done 12 so, but they had acknowledged the difficulty of applying them 13 due to the special circumstances faced by the groups involved.
14 And the Chairman's proposal does not apply the non-15 discrimination rules.

16 Senator Grassley. Mr. Chairman, we are on 403(b)?

17 The Chairman. That is correct.

18 Senator Grassley. As it relates to some church 19 organizations, there has been a great concern expressed over 20 some of the provisions that are in here.

21 It is my understanding, although it seems to have 22 worked out, maybe changes in this area are not looked upon 23 badly by staff or by you. We haven't really gotten down to 24 great detail in this effort, but I would hope that we could 25 maybe work something out in this area, because it seems to me,

1 at least with the church groups, dealing with -- even today.
2 I mean; sure, over the last two or three decades -- with a 3 group of people who early in their professions, particularly 4 if they have had family responsibilities and haven't been 5 able to save a lot of money, and then maybe in the out-years 6 after the kids are away from home they have been able to save 7 a larger amount of money for retirement, in later years, that 8 is just one facet of it.

9 The other one is that basically a whole pay to begin.
10 And I would hope that we could make some changes in this 11 area so that it is not detrimental to that cause.

12 The Chairman. In this area, we were all subject to 13 significant lobbying by churches, Boy and Girl Scouts, YMCAs, 14 a different type of organization from the normal employer that 15 manufactures something.

16 So in my draft I did not apply the normal non-17 discrimination rules, because some of those organizations have 18 had a historical concept of professional and clerical, for 19 lack of a better term, and they covered their professionals 20 in an entirely different way.

21 I think, prospectively, I would like to change it; but I 22 am not going to argue that battle now. But they simply 23 overwhelmed us, and they are all organizations that we have 24 all learned to love, like, and adore.

25 In terms of whether they should be given a special

1 exception -- because I pulled down the limits to the 401(k) 2 limits -- whether they should get a different exception than 3 the employees that Senator Durenberger referred to, or the 4 others, who have worked until they are 45 or 50 and their 5 children have left, and they are now in a position, and are 6 making slightly more money, to put in more money, I am not 7 sure whether that case can honestly be made as between 8 somebody who has worked all of his or her life for the 9 Episcopalian Church and somebody who has worked all of his 10 or her life for 3M.

11 Senator Danforth can make that distinction, he says.

12 Senator Grassley. I guess I want to ask the committee 13 to consider that point of view. Or, if that is trying to 14 carve out too special an exemption for a group that I don't 15 even really think we would consider "a special interest," 16 if there is some other way to do it, I would be happy to 17 look at those ways. But I think we have to deal with it, 18 because generally I look with sympathy upon these people who 19 go beyond and above the call of duty, not limited to a 40-20 hour work, to serve society.

21 The Chairman. Go ahead, John.

22 Mr. Colvin. The next issue is on page 138, Social 23 Security integration. This proposal is significantly --

24 The Chairman. This is almost directly from Heinz-25 Chafee, isn't it?

1 Mr. Colvin. That is correct, Mr. Chairman.

2 Senator Heinz. Mr. Chairman, I probably will have an 3 amendment that somewhat modifies this, that would permit
4 employers to limit combined Social Security and employer-
5 provided pension benefits to 100 percent of an employee's 6 final pay.

7 The whole purpose of the integration section is simply 8 to prevent employers from integrating, as one or two or a 9 very few do, out people who thought that they were going to 10 get a pension plan.

11 The Chairman. Then they have an offset, and they have 12 nothing secured.

13 Senator Heinz. Then there is an offset, and some little 14 65-year-old lady finds that, even after contributing for 10 15 years, she has absolutely no pension whatsoever. That is 16 the goal of this section; it is not to try to impose some 17 arbitrary definition of "fairness." It is to get at what I 18 really perceive to be very serious abuses.

19 The Chairman. I thought the point you wanted in terms 20 of the integration was well taken, and I think the point you 21 raise now is a good point.

22 Mr. Colvin. The next major issue is on page 140, item 23 F, the limitation in the -- limits the amount of includable 24 compensation in a pension plan that can be taken into account, 25 to $200,000.

1 On page 141 are provisions relating to vesting. These 2 are taken from the Heinz-Chafee legislation, and they 3 provide five-year vesting for pension plans.

4 The next issue is on page 143, withdrawal of the 5 benefits.

6 The Chairman. Here we might ask for the Secretary's 7 opinion, because I know this was an area that the Adminis-8 tration had strong feelings in, on the 15-percent tax on the 9 pension withdrawals before age 59 and a half.

10 Mr. Mentz. I wasn't sure what you were referring to, 11 Mr. Chairman, but we support the Chairman's bill in this 12 regard; the 15 percent tax we think makes sense. It is 13 basically a tax on early distributions.

14 We have had, and I am sure you have had as well, folks 15 come in to tell you that 59 and a half is too late, that it 16 should be earlier, it should be upon retirement at any age, 17 and so forth. And perhaps there are nuances there.

18 But basically I would just like to say that the 19 Administration and the Treasury Department supports your 20 position here.

21 Senator Boren. Mr. Chairman, what is the effective date 22 on that provision, under your draft? Would that be January 1, 23 1987?

24 Mr. Colvin. Generally.

25 Senator Boren. So, it would not take effect if there

1 were withdrawals prior to that period? It would not take 2 effect? Because, as I say, we are confronting a situation 3 where we have had some massive layoffs and forced early 4 retirements, and these people are not really able to get 5 other employment at this point in time.

6 How many people do you think would be affected if there 7 were some kind of an exception made, where you have 8 involuntary early retirement situations?

9 Mr. Colvin. If they took the money from the pension plan 10 to use it to buy an annuity, in effect they would be 11 exempted under this proposal. If they were to use the money 12 currently, they would be --

13 Senator Boren. The problem you have -- take a company 14 in the energy industry. We have had some companies that have 15 had to shrink their workforce by as much as one-fourth. And 16 so they have had massive forced early retirements at say 17 age 55. Many of these people, given the climate in that 18 industry, are simply not able to get other jobs, so they are 19 going to have to draw that out in order to live on it.

20 And it seems a bit harsh, if there is a situation where 21 they are a part of a forced contraction of the workforce at a 22 company, and they are forced out of employment and are not 23 re-employed. It seems like a rather harsh effect on them at 24 this point in time, when they are already going to have to 25 be -- their expectations were to work past 59 and a half, and

1 to have a higher retirement when they did retire. But now 2 they are being forced into early retirement.

3 Mr. Mentz. And presumably they need the cash.

4 Senator Boren. They need the cash, yes.

5 Mr. Mentz. You can always roll it into an IRA, but they 6 can't afford to do that.

7 Senator Boren. They are going to have to live on it.

8 Mr. Mentz. Yes. Well, as I mentioned before, you do 9 get into nuances as to whether 59 and a half is the right 10 age, or whether that indeed is the right rule.

11 If someone is 35 and gets a distribution, I think it is a 12 pretty clear case.

13 Senator Boren. Oh, surely. In fact, I don't even object 14 to the 59 and a half at all, if we are dealing with a 15 voluntary situation. But if we are, say, dealing with above 16 age 50 and it is an involuntary situation, where it is a matter 17 of company policy that these people are subject to involuntary 18 layoffs, I think we might want to work on some sort of an 19 exception for that kind of a situation.

20 Mr. Mentz. Well, let us work with you on that. It may 21 be easier to have just an age cutoff rather than to get into 22 whether it was voluntary or involuntary. You get into 23 provisions that the IRS will have trouble administering. But 24 let us get with you on that, Senator Boren.

25 Senator Boren. The prospective effective date helps us

1 as to those that are already having to go through it, and 2 there are 2500 more in one community in Oklahoma that are 3 going to be forced into it in the next two months. So, that 4 helps, the prospective effective date. But I would like to 5 at least think with you about that.

6 The Chairman. Senator Heinz, and then Senator Grassley.

7 Senator Heinz. Mr. Chairman, what we are discussing, 8 of course, also relates back to page 128 and your provisions 9 on withdrawals.

10 As I understand the Chairman's proposal, you don't have 11 a definition of "hardship," and don't permit, therefore, 12 hardship withdrawals. Is that right, John?

13 Mr. Colvin. For 401(k) plans, hardship withdrawals are 14 allowed for the electric deferrals, but not for pension 15 plans.

16 Senator Heinz. But not for pension plans.

17 The idea, as I understand it, and I address this either 18 to you or Mr. Mentz, of the 15 percent excise tax here is 19 that the 15 percent tax fully recaptures the tax benefits from 20 retirement money that is used prior to retirement for other 21 purposes. That is the reason we have the 15 percent, is it 22 not?

23 Mr. Mentz. That is the theory, although it is of course 24 rough.

25 Senator Heinz. Yes.

1 Mr. Mentz. Now, you are recapturing benefits from, in 2 effect, not the intended use of the tax benefit.

3 Senator Heinz. But the idea is to discourage the use 4 of this money unnecessarily?

5 Mr. Mentz. Correct.

6 Senator Heinz. Now, under the Chairman's proposal, 7 could somebody still, nonetheless, if they had a hardship, 8 withdraw their money?

9 Mr. Mentz. They could from a 401(k). And if you are 10 talking about a regular pension or a profit-sharing plan, 11 ordinarily not, I believe.

12 That's right, not from a pension plan, because a pension 13 plan is designed to provide a pension. But if it is a profit-14 sharing plan, yes.

15 Senator Heinz. Oh. Under profit-sharing plans, some of 16 which are 401? Profit-sharing plans typically are 401(k) 17 plans, are they not?

18 Mr. Mentz. That is true, but a profit-sharing plan is a 19 much broader group than just 401(k).

20 Senator Heinz. I agree.

21 But now, if our goal is simply to discourage unnecessary 22 withdrawals, and somebody has a genuine hardship -- they have 23 huge medical bills; they have a terrible casualty loss: their 24 house or their farm burns down; maybe, in Dave Boren's 25 example, someone becomes laid off from their steel mill in

1 Alliquippa, or their town in Oklahoma, as the case may be, at 2 age 55, and the unemployment rate is 50 percent in that area, 3 we might decide that could be a hardship, and obviously I have 4 some concerns that it is -- people could take their money
5 from a 401(k) or a profit-sharing plan under the committee 6 print, and they would be subjected to a 15 percent tax, would 7 they not?

8 Mr. Mentz. That's right.

9 Senator Heinz. Well, Mr. Chairman, my concern is that, 10 if we can arrive at a definition of a genuine hardship, that 11 we shouldn't tax people on a hardship situation if it is 12 genuine, because that overshoots what I think we want to do.
13 We just don't want this to be a kind of convenient tax-14 favored way for savings for niceties that one wants to have 15 at some future time.

16 So, Mr. Chairman, I hope to be able to draw up an 17 amendment that will achieve the purpose of not unduly taxing 18 genuine hardship withdrawals.

19 The Chairman. Senator Grassley?

20 Senator Grassley. Mr. Chairman, someone is going to have 21 to sell me on the theory behind this 15-percent tax on some 22 plan other than just, what I understand the reason is, the 23 uniformity between those plans and Keoghs and Iras, unless I 24 am wrong, because it seems to me like Congress has evolved a 25 policy where certain plans could have early withdrawal, at 1 some age before 59 and a half. And then we evolved Keogh 2 plans and IRAs that had the 59 and a half year in them for 3 another reason, because they served a different purpose.

4 Now we are trying to say that because we have it for 5 Keoghs and IRAs at 59 and a half, then it ought to be for all 6 of them; whereas, it seems to me like if that rationale would 7 be good today, then when we evolved the 59 and a half for 8 IRAs and Keoghs we should have applied all of these 9 retirement programs, the same principle.

10 In other words, there had to be some reason at the time
11 Congress adopted these original plans, made them permissible 12 under tax law, that we didn't have the 59 and a half years in 13 there.

14 The Chairman. I am not sure we thought about it that 15 much at the time we started those plans -- or, to put it the 16 other way around, at the time those plans were started. We 17 didn't really start them.

18 But philosophically, we are asking people to put money
19 aside for retirement -- whether it was the Keoghs or the 401s, 20 or pre-those days. And they get a tax benefit for putting it 21 aside. Then, we ought to be very wary about letting it be 22 withdrawn for other than retirement purposes, because we 23 weren't allowing the tax deductions for other than retirement 24 purposes.

25 Senator Grassley. So, in other words, if you retired

1 at 55 or 56, then there is no 15-percent tax applicable?

2 The Chairman. That is if they roll it over, as I recall, 3 into an annuity. Then there is not a tax.

4 Mr. Mentz. Yes, or take an annuity.

5 Senator Grassley. But what is wrong if they just draw 6 it out? If they actually retire at age 55, why shouldn't they 7 be able to draw it out and not pay the 15-percent tax, if it 8 was the philosophy at the time the Congress adopted it that 9 it was all right? Now, why penalize, just because we have 10 established an arbitrary policy for Keoghs and other plans for 11 59 and a half?

12 Mr. Colvin. Senator Grassley, the theory behind the 13 proposal is that retirement tax incentives should result in 14 benefiting the retirement years, and not benefit later working 15 years, let's say. So, the penalty would apply if the money is 16 used before age 59 and a half, unless it is put into an 17 annuity. But if a person does retire in their fifties, let's 18 say, and puts the money into an annuity, the penalty would not 19 apply.

20 So, in short, the theory is to target the pension and 21 retirement and savings incentives to retirement years.

22 Senator Grassley. Let me ask you. Maybe I don't under-23 stand how it works. But what is the gimmick about rolling 24 over into an annuity? Can't you draw out? If I retire at 25 age 55, and I have a system there that I have for retirement,

1 can't I just draw it out on a monthly basis and not pay the 2 15-percent tax?

3 Mr. Colvin. If you receive the annuity computed based 4 on your remaining life, you avoid the penalty tax.

5 Senator Grassley. Under this plan?

6 Mr. Colvin. Yes, sir. And so, that encourages you to 7 use your pension incentive for the retirement years.

8 Senator Grassley. If you actually the retirement at 9 age 55, say between 55 and 59 and a half, you don't have to 10 pay the 15-percent tax?

11 Mr. Colvin. No, sir. It is only the lump-sum 12 withdrawals before 59 and a half that this would catch.

13 Senator Bradley. May I ask Treasury a question?

14 In the sheet that we were given, withdrawals before age 15 59 and a half, the President's proposal raises 1.9 and our 16 bill raises 2.1 billion. My question: Current law has a 17 10-percent early withdrawal penalty; the President had a 18 20-percent early withdrawal penalty; Senator Packwood has a 19 15-percent early withdrawal penalty. How can a drop from 20 20 to 15 produce more revenue?

21 Mr. Mentz. It was 20, but it would have dropped to 10 22 under certain circumstances. And I believe in the House they 23 concluded that, rather than have a different standard as to 24 which penalty applied, it would be just easier to make it one 25 rate, 15 percent. I think we subscribed to that. It is an 1 improvement.

2 The Chairman. Go ahead, John.

3 Mr. Colvin. On page 144 there are a couple of special 4 issues in this area for tax-sheltered annuities. The 5 proposal broadens withdrawal restrictions which now apply to 6 some 403(b) annuities to all withdrawals, and it limits 7 hardship withdrawals to elective deferrals.

8 On page 145, item B is the change from ten-year 9 averaging to five-year averaging for lump-sum distributions 10 from pension plans.

11 On page 146 there are several issues. The one that has 12 received the most attention is the three-year basis-13 recovery rule, which is repealed by the President's proposal 14 and the House bill and the Chairman's proposal.

15 The Chairman. Except we have a prospective effective 16 date; the House's is last January -- is it January or July?
17 I can't remember.

18 Mr. Colvin. The House bill would have been effective 19 July 1, 1986.

20 The Chairman. And ours is half-effective next January 21 and fully-effective the January after that.

22 Mr. Colvin. That is correct.

23 Senator Chafee. I will have an amendment on that, 24 Mr. Chairman.

25 The Chairman. Go ahead, John. Let's see if we can get

1 through the last four or five pages until we get onto 2 employee benefits. I am not sure there is any point in 3 starting the entire employee benefit package today, because 4 it is a long package.

5 Mr. Colvin. Page 147 are the provisions relating to 6 loans from qualified plans.

7 The Chairman's proposal includes a provision also from 8 the House bill and the President's bill which has the effect 9 of preventing rollovers of loans year after year, thus 10 effectively bypassing the limits on loans enacted by Congress, 11 I believe in 1982.

12 On page 148 is the issue of the limits on contributions 13 and benefits under pension plans.

14 The Chairman's proposal retains the $30,000 limit on 15 defined-contribution plans.

16 The Chairman. There again you are very simliar to Heinz-17 Chafee on that.

18 Mr. Colvin. That is correct, and the Chairman's proposal 19 allows the $90,000 limit on defined-benefit plans to be 20 indexed until it reaches $120,000. And then, when it achieves 21 a ratio of 4:1 with the defined-contribution limit, both would 22 be indexed. And the basis of the indexing is the Social 23 Security wage base. And several of those concepts are in the 24 Heinz-Chafee legislation.

25 On page 149 are some special provisions relating to 1 employee groups that have unique characteristics, primarily 2 that they have early retirement years, and so the limit on 3 benefits is calculated in a special way for those groups.

4 On page 150 is the question of treatment of pension
5 benefits greater than $112,500. Under the Chairman's
6 proposal and the House bill there would be a 15-percent 7 excise tax imposed on pension income greater than that 8 amount.

9 Senator Heinz. Mr. Chairman, I will have an amendment 10 on that.

11 The Chairman. On the $112,500?

12 Senator Heinz. Yes.

13 Mr. Colvin. On page 151 are some provisions that the 14 House bill had included. The Chairman's proposal does not 15 include them because of the Social Security integration 16 provisions in the Senate bill. These provisions would be 17 redundant with those provisions.

18 On page 152, the 25 percent limit on aggregate 19 compensation available for pension plans would be applied to 20 a few additional categories of pension plan, and the purpose 21 is to prevent abuse in connection with attempts to bypass 22 those limits.

23 On the bottom of page 152 is the issue of asset-24 reversion under qualified plans. This would impose a 25 recapture tax on plan reversions coming back to the employer.

1 Mr. Mentz. Mr. Chairman, on that point, I would just 2 like to note that the effective date is very important, and 3 it is reversions after 12-31-85. If you slip that effective 4 date, you provide an incentive for plan terminations to 5 escape the tax. That is what happened at the end of last 6 year.

7 So, that is one effective date, one of the very few 8 effective dates, that should stay at 12-31-85.

9 Mr. Colvin. On page 153 is a provision providing for 10 a general prospective effective date for most of the major 11 provisions of this Title, so that they would not require 12 plan amendments until after December 31, 1988.

13 And on page 154 is a provision from the House bill that 14 collective bargaining agreements must be bona fide to be 15 eligible for the collective bargaining rules in the 16 provisions.

17 And that completes the pension portion of the spread-18 sheets.

19 The Chairman. Why don't we stop there, and we will move 20 to trying to finalize the bulk of energy and ACRS tomorrow, 21 if we can. And then tomorrow afternoon, go through, starting 22 with the employee-benefits section.

23 (Whereupon, at 12:28 p.m., the meeting was recessed, to 24 reconvene Wednesday morning, April 8, 1986, at 9:30 a.m.)

MATSUNAGA AMENDMENT TO PROPOSAL ON BASIC PENSION RULES

ELIMINATE UNNECESSARY BURDENS AND NEED FOR PLAN AMENDMENTS

- Retain current law rules regarding minimum coverage requirements.
- Eliminate proposal to apply new minimum participation requirements to qualified plans.
- Delete proposal to apply a new limitation on the amount of compensation that can be taken into account in determining benefits under a qualified plan.
- Retain current law with respect to minimum vesting requirements.
- Retain current law with respect to minimum distribution requirements.
- Retain current law with respect to deduction limit carryforwards.
- Retain current law permitting an offset of benefits under a defined benefit plan by an employee's elective deferrals.
- Retain current law with respect to the special nondiscrimination test for 401(k) plans.
- Retain current law rules governing permissible integration with social security.
- Retain current law rules governing overall limits on contributions and benefits, except retain proposed exceptions for (i) police, firefighters and pilots (and also corrections officers); (ii) cost-of living arrangements; and (iii) certain health and welfare agencies.
- Delete proposal to impose special non-discrimination requirements on employer matching contributions.
- Provide that plan amendments, if any, required by changes resulting from tax reform need not be made until the the date after January 1, 1989 on which the plan is next amended; provided (i) that the plan complies in operation with the changes as of any seperately stated effective date; and (ii) the amendment applies retroactively to any such effective date.

ELIMINATE BURDENSOME RESTRICTIONS ON DISTRIBUTIONS TO EMPLOYEES

- Delete proposals which would increase the additional income tax on withdrawals prior to age 59 1/2 from 10% to 15% for IRAs, from 5% to 15% for non-qualified deferred annuity contracts and from 0% to 15% for qualified retirement plans and qualified annuities.
- Delete proposal to apply a 15% excise tax on annual distributions from tax-favored retirement arrangements in excess of $112,500.
- Retain current law regarding hardship withdrawals from 401(k) plans and 403(b) annuities.

(1) Solvent Farmer Income Forgiveness

Discharge of indebtedness income arising from an agreement between a solvent individual engaged in the trade or business of farming and an unrelated financial institution to write-down qualified agricultural indebtedness would be treated as income realized by an insolvent individual under Code section 108.

Individuals would be treated as engaged in the trade or business of farming if at least 50 percent of their average annual gross receipts during the three taxable years preceding the year of the debt write-down was derived from the trade or business of farming. Additionally, only those individuals having a debt-equity ratio of at least 70-30 immediately before the write-down would be eligible for this treatment.

Qualified agricultural indebtedness would be defined as debt incurred to finance the production of agricultural products or livestock in the United States, or debt secured by farmland or farm machinery and equipment.

The ordering rules of section 108 would be applied by offsetting basis in farmland last.
